School Board Accepts Corbin's Resignation

The resignation of John S. Corbin, superintendent of the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District, was accepted by the district board of governors Monday night. The resignation will be effective February 1, 1971.

Presently, applications for the superintendent's post are being screened by a board-appointed committee. The new superintendent is expected to be hired July 1, 1970, with Corbin serving in an advisory capacity until his retirement.

Also, it was noted, the district is screening applicants for principal of the high school. Personal interviews are expected to begin Easter week, with board selection of the new principal to follow shortly thereafter.

Dr. James Davis of the University of Nevada has been hired by the school board to conduct a master plan study of school district needs. At the board's request several additional areas of study were inserted, including an examination of curriculum. It is hoped that with the study, schools can be designed and placed according to the district's special needs.

Another high priority item on the agenda was a review of construction plans for Rideout and Truckee elementary schools.

Ted Selden of Reno, school district architect, asked the board for a two-week delay in submission of plans to the California State Department of Architecture and Plans for review, in order to re-estimate the costs involved. He said many costs had increased since the last estimates were made.

In other action the school board:

- adopted a resolution directing the board of supervisors to advertise for bids for the recently-approved $1 million worth of construction bonds.
- directed acting superintendent Wes Sauby to negotiate with the insurance company for a new well for Donner Trail School. The well became contaminated with oil from a construction project at the school and has been unuseable. A temporary pipeline supplies water to the school from the Donner Lake water company.
- approved a request by Mrs. Karen Streepy to provide bus transportation for a Sacramento Symphony concert in South Lake Tahoe.
- approved a request by Dr. H. Tapia of the Parks and Recreation District to allow the district the use of the high school gymnasium on Saturdays. Tapia told the board that response to the district's programs was so large that additional space was needed.
- decided to advertise for bids for the purchase of a new 79-passenger school bus.
- decided to employ three additional kindergarten teachers for 1970-71 school year.
- authorized the Placer County treasurer to invest school funds until they are needed by the district.
- appointed a negotiating committee to include presiding officer Jack deRyk to meet with district teachers in order to solve any problems involving working conditions that may arise.

Land Firm 'Thinking' About Donner

Southern Pacific Land Co., which already has major holdings in the Sierra, is "merely thinking" about purchasing many acres along the West Shore of Donner Lake.

William Herbert, assistant manager of the company's natural resources division, stated that the organization "has not purchased" any Donner Lake property yet and "has not purchased any options" for land in the area.

Herbert noted that a recent reorganization of the company had made available a lot of money earmarked for land investment purposes. He commented that the Donner Lake proposals were to be given a careful analysis along with proposals and properties throughout the state.

It had been reported to the Sun that Southern Pacific was seriously considering Donner Lake property for development as a ski area and for various recreational condominium type complexes.

Employes Ask Raise

Nevada county employes are seeking a 6.1 per cent pay raise, which just matches the cost of living increase in the Golden Empire during 1969.

The 6.1 per cent request was made to a committee of supervisors and was reported to the full board by Bob Long. He and William Thomas, who was absent Tuesday, met with officials of the employes' association.

"We heard their story and said we are sympathetic but want to see how we will fit together all our budgets," Long said.

The 6.1 per cent figure was based on the consumer price index which indicated the cost of living rose by that much in this area last year.

Supervisor Ralph Buchanan noted employes who are still moving up the salary scale would receive five per cent increases for an additional year's experience plus the 6.1 cost of living raise, or a total of 11.1 per cent.

However, employes who have worked for the county longer than five years are at the top of the scale for their jobs and would receive only the cost of living increase.

'Dog Day' Highlights 1970 Winter Carnival

Monday will be "Dog Day" in Truckee. The local Merchants Association will sponsor a 25-category contest for area pooches. Winning dogs will receive ribbons and prizes donated by the merchants.

"Clean your pooch and put him on a leash and enter him in the Mutt Show," notes Carson White, judge for the event. A grand prize will be awarded to the best trained all-around mutt by judges White, Willie Curran, Les Geary and Lauren Russell. Competition is open to the public free of charge.

The competition will be part of the Easter Week Winter Carnival to be staged all week at Boreal Ridge, Soda Springs, Donner Ski Area and Sugar Bowl. Action is planned for each day to keep the thousands of persons expected in the area busy with fun and entertainment, including several kinds of family races.

Categories for the dog contest are listed as follows: best dressed, longest tail, shortest tail, happiest dog, saddest dog, longest tongue, best sniffer, best trick, best male, best female, funniest dog, shortest ears, longest ears, fatest dog, thinest dog, smallest dog, largest dog, oldest dog, youngest dog, hungriest dog, cleanest dog, scroungiest dog, prettiest dog, and most ferocious.

The contest is under the direction of the Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce, Truckee Merchants Association and Truckee Lions Club.

Events scheduled for the eight-day Winter Carnival were listed as follows:

Friday: Torch parade of skiers and snowmobiles down Donner Summit, 8 p.m. Queen coronation, fondue party and dance at Donner Lake Lodge, 9 p.m. All-night skiing at Boreal Ridge.

Saturday: Torch light parade in Soda Springs Ski Area.

Sunday: No events scheduled.

Monday: Truckee Mutt Meet at noon in downtown Truckee. NASTAR races at Boreal Ridge. FWSA Class D Junior Race Camp, Boreal Ridge.

Tuesday: Film festival at Tahoe Truckee High School.

March 25: "Ladies Day" at Donner Ski Area.

March 26: NASTAR race at Boreal Ridge. Levi's Winter Carnival at Donner Ski Area.

March 27: No scheduled events.

March 28: Easter Sunday services at Truckee, Boreal Ridge and Squaw Valley. Region II Ski-Bob Championships at Donner Ski Area. Easter egg hunt and obstacle races at Soda Springs.

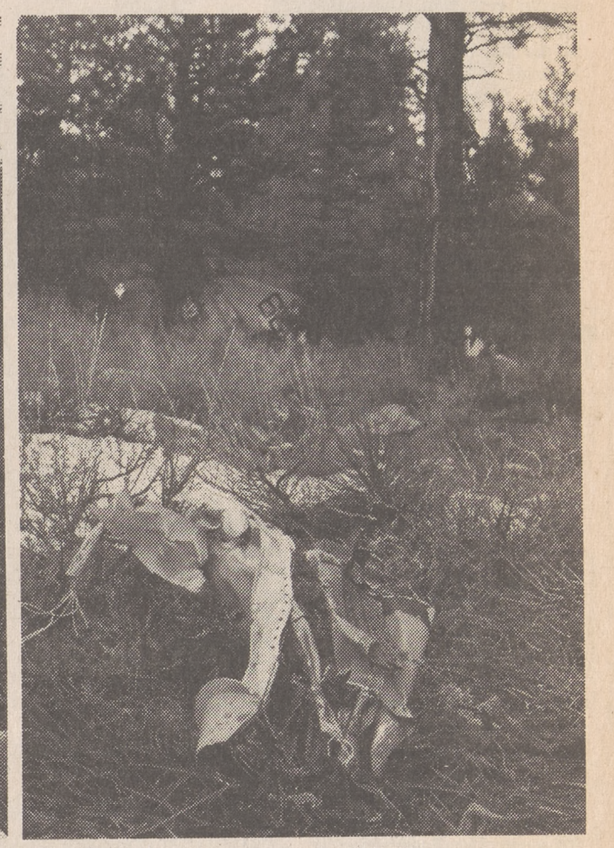
Floriston: Mrs. Felesina, Floriston Post Office.

Soda Springs: Mrs. Bette Partell, Donner Pass Road.



NAVY JET LOST – The above photos show the remains of a Navy jet which crashed near Truckee Friday afternoon. The pilot, Michael H. Draper, 34, ejected safely before the impact one-half mile south of the Interstate 80 intersection with Prosser Village Road. Draper, who is a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve, reported engine failure and ejected from the craft. –Sun Photos.

Jet Crashes Near Truckee; Pilot Not Hurt In Mishap

The U.S. Navy doesn't only lose aircraft over the battlefields of Vietnam as Truckee residents found out last Friday when an A4C Skyhawk jet plunged into a flat wooded area 1 1/2 miles east of town.

Michael H. Draper, 34, a Naval Reserve pilot flying out of Alameda Naval Air Station, reported engine failure on the Navy jet Friday afternoon, ejected from the plane and landed in the snow-covered field approximately 300 yards from where the plane crashed.

Several officers from the Truckee offices of the California Highway Patrol and the Nevada County Sheriff's Office participated in the search for the pilot and the downed aircraft.

CHP officer Glenn F. Virus, directed to the pilot and crash site by another military jet making passes overhead, located the pilot who was uninjured and saw that the pilot was transferred to the CHP headquarters for subsequent travel back to Alameda.

The crash was reported to the CHP by the telephone call from South Lake Tahoe Airport. The plane was almost totally demolished by the force of impact, with only part of the tail section remaining intact.

CHP officers participating in the search included Lt. F.J. Boecking, area commander; Sgt. G.C. (Skip) Kissner, Sgt. Ray Kenney, and traffic officers Martin A. Sturcke, Philip Willard, Michael Daniels, William Ruppert and Virus.

Lt. Bert Kershaw, commander of the Truckee substation for Nevada County sheriff's office, said his deputies assigned to the case were Dave Eaton and Walt Lord.

According to the CHP report on the incident, the local office received the call from SLT Airport at 3:40 p.m. The pilot was seen parachuting to safety. Officers Sturcke, Virus, Willard, Daniels and Ruppert began to comb the area attempting to locate the downed aircraft. It was located in a wooded, flat area approximately 1 1/4 miles east of State Route 89 North and 1/2 mile south of Interstate 80.

Officer Virus noticed another military jet making passes over a certain location. He communicated with the pilot by standing in plain view and pointing in the suspected direction. The pilot would wave his wings at the right direction. When he was reasonably certain of the proper direction, Officer Virus left his vehicle and hiked from the freeway approximately 1/2 mile to where he found the uninjured pilot.

Shortly thereafter several other CHP officers arrived on the scene on foot and protected the area until personnel from the sheriff's office and Civil Air Patrol arrived.

Later that afternoon and over the weekend U.S. Navy personnel, with the assistance of area peace officers, were investigating the incident and collecting the fragments from the plane.

CHP and Sheriff's deputies used four-wheel drive vehicles to assist in the rescue operation and investigation of the crash.

Draper is employed by Pan American World Airways as a pilot.

Hot Line To Improve City-County Relations

Nevada county soon may have its own "hot line," but unlike the famous one between Washington and Moscow, it won't be used by leaders of national government to improve communications and prevent nuclear war with Russia.

The Nevada county "hot line" will be used by leaders of local government to improve communications and prevent confusion with Truckee.

Chairman Willie Curran, who represents the eastern end, asked for a study of a direct line between the courthouse and Truckee. Auditor John Trauner reported Tuesday such a line would cost $320 a month for 320 calls. Calls to or from Truckee above that number would be charged at the rate of five cents each.

By contrast, the county's monthly bill for calls to Truckee currently runs about $165. This does not count calls from citizens to the courthouse, and toll free service would be available both ways if the line is approved.

The county has a government center at Truckee, but it houses officials of only a few departments. The advantage of a direct line would be that Truckee citizens could have questions answered directly by talking to the people in the department involved, Trauner felt. He added that coordination by the courthouse staff with county officials in Truckee also would be simplified.

He was asked to find the cost of having Soda Springs, which has a different prefix, added to the system.

Supervisor Robert Long expressed some reservation about the concept, stating:

"Speaking for district three, we need to find the cost of a direct line for North San Juan and French Corral. People have to make long distance calls from there."

Long indicated he made that comment to show that "this thing can get away from us."

Supervisor Dean Lawrence added that some people with Auburn phone numbers live in her district, but the extra expense might be justified for the eastern end "because they are over the hill and can't get here easily."

Other business handled by the supervisors included these items:

— A resolution was adopted welcoming suggestions from the public and county employes to help improve the service of the supervisors to the county.

— A resolution change was approved for the home health agency stating it will be financed from the general fund rather than the enterprise fund as was done in the past.

— Also approved was a resolution directing the hospital administrator to turn over to the county counsel's office delinquent accounts where there appear to be enough assets to make a collection attempt practical.

— It was agreed to have a watchman at the road equipment yard at the airport. A person will put a trailer there and will not be charged for the space. Neither will he charge the county for watching the premises.

— A resolution supporting and sanctioning the historical society committee which is trying to save the covered bridge at Bridgeport was approved. This was a prelude to a fund drive to help pay for preserving the historical structure.

An annual agreement with SP Land Co. was approved by which the county can remove road material from a gravel pit near Graniteville. The price is seven cents per ton or 10 cents per yard. None of the gravel from this borrow pit was used last year, but public works officials want to have the source available.

— Ronald Pardini of Lakeworld asked that the reversion to acreage of some lots in Indian Mountain Estates be placed on next week's board agenda. He explained that he has worked out differences with homeowners.

Three Accident Victims Reported 'Satisfactory'

Three persons — Johnny Americo Benavides, 26, of Sacramento; Michael Leon Shada, 24, of Olympic Valley; and Ignacio B. Cortez, 25 – were listed in "Satisfactory" condition Monday afternoon at Tahoe Forest Hospital following automobile accidents last week.

Benavides was injured last Thursday morning when his vehicle and an auto driven by Leari Dewit Anderson, 49, of North Highlands, collided on Interstate 80, 2.3 miles east of Hirschdale interchange. Apparently, Benavides fell asleep at the wheel.

Shada was injured when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and his vehicle drifted off the roadway, striking a two-foot pine tree. He was headed North on Highway 89, 800 feet north of Highway 28, when the incident occurred.

Details of the Cortez mishap were unavailable at press time except the fact that it occurred on Highway 267. Cortez was headed south on 267 when his auto and a vehicle driven by Benjamin Sawaji Matsuda, 59, of San Francisco collided. Matsuda was headed north on 267.

Four-year-old Richard Scott Snook of Crystal Bay was injured Saturday morning when the car his mother was driving overcorrected a broadside skid, went up a dirt embankment and rolled over. The child was treated and released from Tahoe Forest Hospital. Driver of the vehicle was Karen Lee Snook, 24, of Crystal Bay.

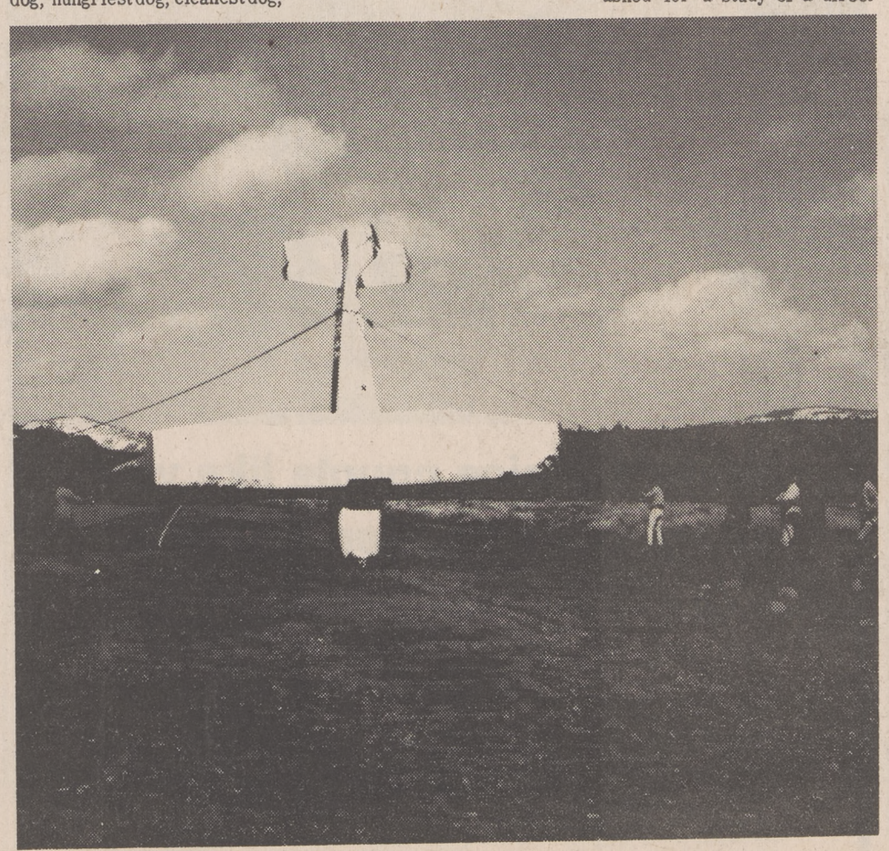
Treated and released from Tahoe Forest Hospital following a single-car mishap Friday on Highway 267 was Gary Melvin Puckett, 18, of Santa Rosa. Puckett told officers he had swerved to avoid a rabbit or deer, causing the vehicle to strike a snowbank and roll over. The incident occurred at 11:45 p.m. on Highway 267.

Honor TNT Players And Coach

Coach Joe deArrieta and high school senior Bill Kinzie have been named "Coach of the Year" and "Player of the Year," respectively for the Pioneer League.

Kinzie, who plays center for the Tahoe-Truckee High School squad, and deArrieta, who is in his second year as TNT basketball head coach, were selected by loop coaches last Wednesday night.

Additionally, forward Chris Wiser and guard Jim Baxter were selected to the second team all-league squad.



AIRPORT CRASH - This Cessna 182 ran off the runway at Truckee-Tahoe Airport during high winds last weekend and overturned. The pilot, Joseph Kocsis of San Jose, and his unidentified passenger, were not injured. Apparently the entire weight of the aircraft was transferred to the front wheel which dug into the soft earth and caused the light plane to overturn. The aircraft, which is being righted in photo, is believed to be a total loss. - Photo by Art Dollar

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

Hurry, Hurry, Hurrry. Come and get it. Free money, only 16,000 for each home owner and get 2 and 1/2 million dollars free. Hear me now, free, did I say free – yes I said free, your government is giving away free money – no strings attached, just for the asking.

Phineas T. Barnum in his day couldn't have visualized a greater come on. The cry of the carnibarker, the con–man at the fair, the commercial huckster of the advertising media. Freee all free, just for the asking.

Two million dollars to obtain one days water supply from Lake Angela and a place to put it, in an area that couldn't afford to put good water worth about 2,000 dollars last winter into the homes at Soda Springs.

Using the information given to the voters last year, 1.6 million for sewage, 1.4 million for water improvement, to raise the level of Lake Angela four feet to obtain 110,–000 gallons of increased storage capacity, which amounts to only one days water use at the present rate. With only a little work and it is said that figures don't lie, this great amount of water is only one twelfth of an acre foot, or an area only 60 x 60 feet.

Who is kidding who?

Once again from the figures, 3 million dollars required, 2,–097,000 "Free Money" 753,000 borrowed from the government at what interest? "A low interest rate was mentioned" and to take care of the rest, 200,–000 worth of bonds must be sold. These bonds must be sold to guarantee all of the free money. With the prime interest rate staying up, local voters being asked to raise the limit on the school bonds, many municipal bonds waiting for buyers, how is the district with only 70 users and a small tax base going to sell and pay back 953,000 dollars plus the necessary interest?

Aha – We will annex in other areas, broaden our tax base, make the new area pay for their fair share, allow them no vote in annextaion, it's for their own good you know. We can't let all this free money get away, let Big–Brother do it! What is it going to cost? Oh about $3 per hundred on your taxes, then when the other areas are annexed in it will go down, we can reduce the rate, (if they aren't annexed, the tax can go up, and up, the sky is the limit). Ask what the increase in the Ice Lakes assessment's did to the anticipated land rush . . . Soda Springs tax payers, the property owners, will be paying the highest non–city tax bill in Nevada County, for the least in over–all service.

But it is all in the interest of free money, who pays for all this free money? The government of course, who is the government, we are, and who puts all this free money in the government? We do – but it's freeee – and from an old quote . . . "sucker born every minute . . ."

I don't like the idea of legally being liable for my share of almost 1 million dollar debt, or about 14,000 dollars.

Just what else are we going to get with all this free money? Well let's see . . . 400 new jobs, created by this free money, property values will go up, the area will grow, yes actually mushroom, why it will be just like downtown, neighbors, you know, real people living next door, no firs, pines, wildflowers, no open space, more smog, just like we got in the city, another 1000 tons of garbage to deposit in an area already short on room for disposal, why it will be just like the place we left to get away from, we only want to start from fresh this time and really enjoy spoiling the area.

But it is free you know, it is progress, you can't afford to turn it down.

I am glad that I have the perogative to sell out, move away, leave all the costs on those who wanted this great influx of job creators, job holders and the potential that we will benefit from by looking like downtown.

Sometime ago, I received a copy of a newspaper clipping, and your article "One Man's Opinion," which, in effect, was an open letter to me regarding Martis Creek. I am pleased to have an opportunity to review your letter and comment on it.

The Martis Creek Reservoir is a 20,000 acre-foot multiple-purpose project. It is designed to provide a substantial measure of flood control, some municipal water, and substantial recreation benefits. The bottom will be sealed with clay in order that recreation benefits can be realized not only by the people in the immediate area, but by the whole Truckee region.

When completed it will cost approximately $8 million, and it is estimated that in flood prevention alone the dam will pay for itself in about 20 years. However, when you apply the benefits mentioned above to the total picture, the pay-off period would be reduced substantially.

The project was originally conceived as a flood control project for Reno, and at that time there was ample need and justification for the project in view of the nature of the Martis Valley. It is true that the situation in the valley has changed. However, this change does not reduce the need for flood protection to Reno. If anything, the change has increased the need for the project. As the development of subdivisions, property and other more intensive uses of the valley increase, the natural runoff increases, causing flood threats downstream.

Questions were also raised regarding the possibility of flood storage on the Truckee River itself. Although I do want to say that a possibility has been considered at Verde, it does not look, at this point, that this project will move ahead. Similarly, it has been contended that the Trimont Reservoirs would reduce the need for flood protection on Martis Creek.

In conclusion, I do want to say that the project is well on its way. The main dam contract will be awarded sometime this spring and with the authorizations and appropriations already locked in, there is no way to terminate the project.

Finally, I want you to know that I do recognize the need for adequate sewage protection in the Truckee-North Tahoe area and have been working with the people of the Public Utility District surveying this region to provide federal assistance to these lines. These, of course, as you well know, must be justified as to their economic importance, as must reservoir projects such as Martis Creek.

Historic Guide To Truckee-Tahoe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twenty–sixth in a series of excerpts taken from "Edward's Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin," published in 1883 by C. F. Edwards, former editor of the Truckee Republican.)

Spencer remained until the western train came along, when he boarded it, and went to the hospital at Nevada City. He had received notice some time before signed "601," to the effect that he must not be found in town after a certain time. He went and returned a short time after, being out of town, generally remaining during the night at a cabin, some distance out. He was advised repeatedly by officers and citizens to leave and remain away until the affair had fully blown over. He acknowledged the wisdom of the advice, and said every day that he intended, and would leave at certain times, which passed, and found him still here. Threats of serious nature against three of four men, of whom he is reported to have spotted, were reported as coming from him, which may, and may not, have hurried on this act.

This was the last positive act of the 601's. A red ribbon tacked to a man's door, was sufficient notice, and the warned parties stood not upon the order of their going, but went at once. One party who had received the "warning" in the morning went about the streets during the day vowing vengence on the men who sent it, and swore he would spill his last drop of blood before he quit the town, but the shades of evening brought a change o'er the spirit of his dreams, and he is doubtless, still uttering anathemas against 601, in some removed place, at least he never has appeared in Truckee since, although that was over ten years ago.

On several other occassions there has been talk of re–organizing, but the determination of the men composing the order was too well known, and the desperadoes who had them to fear, either quietly changed their habits or their place of residence, and thus prevented the necessity. The 601 s have done their work and passed into – if not oblivion – at least to a state of repose, from it is hoped they will never have occasion to awaken. Their actions are condemned by many, but their fruits were good, and tended to make Truckee what it is now, a peaceful, quiet mountain town on top of the Sierra Nevada mountains. (More next week.)

CHAPPIE CLUB - Assemblyman Gene Chappie, right, and Jim Grubbs of Roseville, chairman of the Sixth Assembly District Re-elect Chappie Committee, show the specially-designed membership card for the A-6 Chappie Club now being formed.

Form Club For Chappie

The Re-Elect Chappie Committee (RCC) has announced the formation of a Gene Chappie A-6 Club in honor of the incumbent assemblyman.

The purposes of the club, said RCC Truckee chairman Jack Marquette, are to promote good government and provide broadly-based financial support for the campaign.

Chappie, he said, will seek re-election to his fourth term as assemblyman for the 11-county Sixth Assembly District. "The A-6 Club," Marquette said, "will continue to allow us to finance his campaign from the small contributions of many citizens rather than large amounts from special interests."

Any citizen may contribute $6 or more for an A-6 club membership. Members will receive a lapel pin, membership card and bumper strip, all bearing the A-6 emblem.

Persons desiring further information about the club are asked to contact Marquette at 587-3717 or RCC general chairman Jim Grubbs of Roseville at 791-1971.

Committee Plans Told

By ROBERTA HUBERS

Members of the Impact Committee attended the meeting of the planning commission and were told that although there was no legal prohibition to having the meeting on tentative maps of subdivisions a public hearing, there was no precedent.

Therefore, the chairman, H. T. Livingston, ruled that members of the general public would not be heard, although he would recognize spokesmen of affected agencies and bona fide groups. The next meeting of the planning commission to discuss Lake-World will be Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Nevada City.

Also on the agenda for that meeting is a proposed use permit for a ¼ section, 160 acres, astride the Prosser Dam Road for conversion to a 187-unit mobile home subdivision. Again, the same questions are raised as to adequate effluent disposal, source of water, size and design of lots, snow removal, fire protection.

Anyone wishing a ride to this important meeting may contact any member of the committee to consolidate car pools.

To set the record straight-the study on which the Department of Public Health based its approval of Donner Lake as a water source for the P.U.D. was taken in 1956. It seems to us a more recent study is needed before any action is taken to use Donner water.

Dates: Friday 8 p.m. a Committee meeting at the Huber House; March 23 7:30 p.m. Planning Commission Meeting, Nevada County Court House. For information call 587-4161 or 587-3759.

The annual "Easter Egg Hunt," a tradition of the Rotary Club of North Lake Tahoe, will be held the day before Easter this year, according to Roy "Easter Bunny" Porath, chairman of the event for the club. "We have always scheduled the affair for the day before Easter trying to miss the confusion of an Easter Day event," Prath stated.

The festivities for pre-school age children through fourth graders will start at 11:30 a.m. on March 28 at the Brockway Theatre, where Bill Tamblyn has arranged for a two hour show including cartoons and comedies the youngsters like," Porath continued," and we will have the doors of the Theatre open at 11 o'clock.

Porath repeated that only the children up to and including fourth graders from Kings Beach and Incline Village Elementary Schools would be invited to the show and Easter Egg Hunt.

Transportation from the show to the Easter Egg Hunt on the Brockway Golf Course will be provided by the Rotarians with big assists from Ski Incline and General American Development whose busses will be used.

The Hunt will start with the pre-school age children at 1:30 p.m. "I want to especially thank these firms for their help," Porath said," and while I'm thanking people I must point out that without the help of Paul Adamco, chef at the Crystal Bay Club, the Rotarians would not have been able to cope with the boiling of the hundreds of eggs we have used each year in the hunt."

Parents of the children will be responsible for getting their youngsters to the theater and picking them up at the golf course. The event should be over by 3 p.m.

What's a nice couple like you doing in a situation like this?

Buy yourself an Electric Dishwasher and Disposal

Let's face it. You could be doing better things than washing dishes and carrying out garbage.

Get together with the Go-Togethers — an automatic dishwasher and an electric disposal. They work side-by-side to keep your kitchen clean and neat.

With the Go-Togethers, all you have to do is rinse the dirty dishes into the disposal and put them in the dishwasher. Dishes are done, and with a flick of a switch, garbage is gone. You save hours of work and dishes are spotlessly clean the most effective way possible. No washing, no wiping, no carrying out garbage.

The Go-Togethers are meant for each other . . . your new dishwasher and disposal can be installed at the same time — quickly and at greater savings than individual installations.

So get together with the Go-Togethers! See your appliance dealer now!

The Tahoe City Rotary Club honored the championship basketball players, coaches and managers of Tahoe Truckee High School at a recognition dinner held at the Tahoe Inn on Tuesday evening.

The varsity Wolverines, champions of the Pioneer League, were special guests at the St. Pat's corned beef dinner along with the junior varsity players, who tied for first place in league junior varsity play, and coaches Joe de Arrieta and Andy Antonucci. Team managers were also honored at the affair with Rod Stollery acting as master of ceremonies.

Rotary president Mac McPherson presented honor placques to the two teams in celebration of their victorious season.

For the first time in the North Tahoe area, a "Heart Sound Screening Program" is being conducted and will start with the fifth grade students of the Truckee Elementary School on Wednesday. This program will also be given for fifth grade students of the Tahoe Lake and Kings Beach elementary schools later in the month.

The program is being offered by the Sacramento-Yolo-Sierra Heart Association and acting as local chairmen are Betty Layton of Tahoe City and Frank Giovannoni of Truckee.

Leaving this week for a vacation trip of several weeks are Tom and Gean Pope and daughter Holly of Dollar Point. The Popes are flying and will be historically sightseeing in New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, D. C. and other eastern spots.

Notes from the St. Pat's Ball of the Tahoe City Volunteer Fire Department: congratulations to Parky Bechdolt and all the firemen for the fun dancing party much enjoyed by hundreds of Tahoe residents and visitors... the music was tuneful and danceable, the food was scrumptious and the spirits lively and the guests had to be "urged" to leave at the 2 a.m. closing time. The "urging" was done, by the way, by opening up all the double doors to the icy outside winds ... among those livening things up considerably were Stan Richlin, Lavina, Bill Conners, Pat O'Grady, Dorothy Cowan, John Evers, Jake Lusky, Geri Bean, Bill Newell, Ray Huston, Evelyn Huckle and Pat Patterson ... among the guests it was especially nice to see was Harry Johanson ... looking glamorous were Mrs. Chief Jean Henry, Rosina Kehoe, Diane Emery, Marian Patterson, Linda Austin, Pat Schutte, Kay Mendonca, Jeanette Baxter and Sharon Daniels. . . norther "North Tahoe" guests were Bill and Arlene Reynolds and Bob and Tally Daneri ... coming up from "down below" especially for the party was Chris Bonino who says she's never missed this annual event . . . among those representing the "younger set" were Bill Bates, Phil Balbuena, Don Bury and John Carnell... again, congratulations to all those who planned this event.

The Tahoe Lake PTA will meet tonight at 8 p.m. at the Tahoe Lake School. President Dorothy Cowan, vice president and program chairman Darryl Fenley and the executive board of the group have reported that unless there is a decided increase in interest, both from the community and individuals, in PTA activities that the local group will have to be regretfully disbanded. Anyone interested in assisting in continuing activities of the PTA is advised to contact Mrs. Cowan or Fenley.

Recent visitors to the South Tahoe airport radio control tower were Van and Robyn Farris of the Chamberlands. Robyn, formerly a California Highway Patrol radio dispatcher at the Truckee CHP office, noted the difference in observing the aircraft in view during radio transmission whereas CHP units were not seen while transmitting via air.

The radio dispatcher extended an invitation to all pilots in the area to visit the radio control tower at the airport whenever possible.

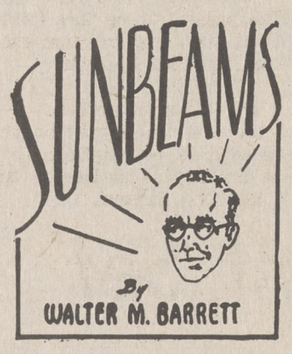
A reminder to all unregistered voters: register in order to be eligible to vote in the primary elections. Among the many places to register in the area are the county offices at the County Administration Center, Porters, the North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce, the Raymond Vail offices and the Tahoe City Library.



Keep the police off the campus. This seems to be one of the most frequent demands of college students who are seeking to upset the traditions and standard rules.

It is our studied opinion that this demand could and should be complied with if the small minority of malcontents, using the colleges to further their aims toward anarchy, would also get off and away from the campuses.

It isn't too hard to visualize what would occur if this demand was met under prevailing conditions. Without the police, colleges could be completely destroyed, innocent people would undoubtedly be killed and mob rule would take over, destroying every vestige of reason as we have known it. As a matter of fact, we doubt very much if the rioters themselves would want the officers off the campus. If this happened, the so-called silent majority, the students who are in school for education and who, for the most part, detest rioting and destruction, might rise up in indignation and oust the revolutionaries.

We will agree that the police, under current conditions, established by our higher courts, are handicapped in dealing with the arnarchists and rioters as they might wish and are therefore subjected to outrageous abuses and are easy targets for the small bands of rioters who use the police to vent their hate.

Unless there is a radical change for the better in the immediate future, the need for even more law enforcement on the campuses is demanded. The situation continues to develop and has reached a point where taxpayers are loath to support their schools. They see their money going into buildings and other facilities necessary for education only to have these costly facilities destroyed by arsonists and rock-throwing radicals apparently bent on an overthrow of the established system.

Linda Smith Is Married In Bay City

By ELLEN ATTARDI

Linda Jean Smith of the Highlands and San Francisco was a lovely bride when she was united in marriage last Saturday with Stephen R. Hege of the U.S. Navy and Rock Hill, South Carolina. The informal morning ceremony was performed by the Reverend A. Brown in the chapel of the First Congregational Church in San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of the Darrel A. Smiths of the Highlands and is a graduate of Tahoe Lake School and Tahoe Truckee High School where she was very active in student affairs. She is presently at the Grace Ball School in San Francisco and will continue her education until graduation in September.

The groom, son of the Norman Heges of Rock Hill, attended schools in South Carolina and is now with the U.S. Navy at Treasure Island where he is receiving training in radar school.

The new Mrs. Hege was given in marriage by her father and was beautifully gowned in a white sheath with white orchids for the double ring ceremony.

The young couple plans to take a wedding trip to South Carolina next month and they are now making their home in San Francisco.

Among those in attendance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Smith and brothers Ron and Butch and his wife Sharon.

Last Thursday, Friday and Saturday the TNT basketball team participated in the Yreka Tourney, the tournament for the top basketball teams of Northern California. At school, everyone who wished it, had their name put onto the telegram sent to the team wishing them good luck. Thursday night they played Yreka at 8. Though the Wolverines are first in the Pioneer League, they failed to capture Yreka, and lost the game, 69 to 36. Walt Brett was the high point man for that game.

Friday night at 7 Tahoe–Truckee played Williams. It was a very close game, but TNT lost 63 to 53. That night's high point man was Bill Kinzie.

Saturday at 2:30, the Wolverines proceeded to play Weed. The game ran into triple overtime, and saw the opposers winning 67 to 64. Bill Kinzie was high point man with 19 points, and Doug Lindsey and Walt Brett tied with 11 points.

It was a very tough tournament. Schools participating in the tourney were Yreka, Williams, Happy Camp, Tahoe–Truckee, Weed, Fairfield, Placer. Awards showed Bill Kinzie chosen for the third team.

Last week, the results of the sportsmanship conference and the awarding of the all–league presentations were made. For sportsmanship, the final tabulations showed Tahoe–Truckee first, Wheatland second, and Lincoln third. Bill Kinzie was chosen for the all–league first string, with Jim Baxter and Chris Wiser on the second string. Voted most valuable player was Bill Kinzie, and coach of the year was TNT's Coach Joe deArrieta.

At a dance last week, all J.V. and varsity players were given a framed color photograph of the team. So ends our 69–70 season. Congratualtions to all the team for their fantastic playing and thanks to all the people who helped support the team.

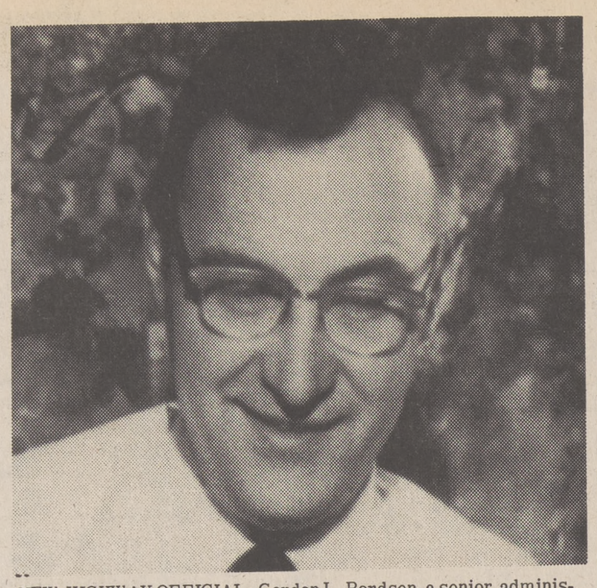
Thursday, the Tahoe–Truckee ski team was given a big send–off, complete with the pep band and rice, to wish them good luck in the CNISF championships to be held at Mt. Rose. The regular season shows us Tahoe–Truckee in first, Lee Vining second, Skyline third, Portola fourth, El Dorado fifth, Ponderosa sixth, Placer seventh, Redwood eighth, Tahoe–Sierra ninth, and George Whittell tenth.

In Friday's race, racer Babe Street placed first leaving TNT first, Lee Vining second and Skyline third.

Saturday's race showed Patty Tilton first, Patty Northrup second, and in boys, Bill Brehler third and Scott Hawkins fifth. Results from this giant slalom showed Skyline first, Tahoe–Truckee second, Portola third, Lee Vining fourth, and Ponderosa fifth. Overall results were an average of the two meets and Tahoe–Truckee placed first, Skyline second, and Portola was third.

Congratulations to the team and their excellent coach, Leon Lucchesi. For the third time in a row, the Tahoe–Truckee ski team is the state champ!



NEW HIGHWAY OFFICIAL - Gordon L. Bordsen, a senior administrator in the District Three office of the California State Division of Highways, has been appointed administrative officer of the district. Tahoe Environment Topic Of Symposium

Lake Tahoe, the mile high alpine haven for harried urbanites and ski enthusiasts, will be both the subject and scene for an environmental workshop to be held by Placer County in Kings Beach on Friday.

The public meeting consisting of morning and afternoon work periods will begin at 9 a.m., in the Information Center at 8310 North Lake Boulevard.

Richard M. Heikka, Placer County planning director, said the purpose of the meeting is to review the county's planning and administrative practices.

"We will have an opportunity to talk to experts in law, ecology, geology, sociology, conservation, engineering, finance and development at the Lake about the Lake," he noted.

"We want to show what the county has done in an attempt to preserve our environment," Heikka added, "and start a new drive in developing interest and methodology in preserving it."

The program topics up for discussion are "People vs the Lake" at the morning session and "Land form Changes" in the afternoon.

An all-day workshop has also been scheduled for Auburn on April 3, and a symposium to review the workshops in Sacramento on April 27.

Participants in the day long meeting at Kings Beach include: Federal Judge Thomas J. MacBride; Donald F. Williams, partner in the Moana Development Company; Heikka; Betty Layton, manager of the North Lake Chamber of Commerce; Norman B. Hume, member of the State Water Resources Control Board; James McEvoy, sociologist at the University of California, Davis; Robert Matthews, a state geiologist; William P. Collins, partner in Tahoe Associates Real Estate; Asa Hanamoto, landscape architect with Royston, Hanamoto, Beck and Abey; James A. Roberts, president of James A. Roberts, Associates, Inc.; Don Ellis, president of The League to Save Lake Tahoe; Herbert P. Beck, general contractor and president of Herbert P. Beck, Inc.

County supervisor William S. Briner will be the moderator. Chester A. Gibbs, chairman of the county planning commission, and Bob Nahas, president of the R. T. Nahas Company and a former president of the Urban Land Institute, will act as annotators.

The Auburn workshop will consider the working topics, "Managing the Environment" and "By Public Consent."

In Sacramento, on April 27, a special panel consisting of Lt. Gov. Ed Reineke, Congressman Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson, Assemblymen George W. Milias and Eugene A. Chappie, Norman Livermore, Jr., Roy Robinette, USFS Regional Forester Jack Deinema and David Irmer will review the workshop findings.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot Shots

By BETTY LAYTON

As the Prof. says, you see the same old faces at all the meetings directed to inform the public. Those few attending are usually the ones already in the know! An opportunity to express your views will be this Friday, where Placer County has assembled people to be the sounding board for your views. The meeting will start at 9 a.m. and continue all day at the Gen. Amer. Dev. Center in Kings Beach.

Assemblyman Chappie has introduced a bill to appropriate funds for a recreational facility at Kings Beach which would provide for land acquisition for a two-lane boat launching ramp, parking area and sanitary facilities. The measure, AB 52, looks favorable for passage of the appropriation, according to Supervisor Bill Briner.

The Chamber meeting on Play Tahoe North's summer activities at Alpine Meadows Thursday will be an all out effort by the committee to coordinate events and activities in the area to make it possible for all resorts to be aware of what is happening to promote. Everyone has to be a salesman for the area to make it more attractive to others who visit here. Visitors stop by the Chamber office daily asking for information on what is available for them to do or see - the biggest sport in the world is the spectator sport!

Remember the Chamber Ski Tahoe North reservation service is available to anyone wishing information on places to stay in the area - winter or summer. We place people in the type of place and the price range closest to their wishes.

The Powder Bowl Ski area, at the entrance to Alpine Meadows, was the first to sponsor the Barrel Stave races after the Olympics. They started the local restaurant teams competing with each other and it has grown to be a really big fun day. This year, Paul Masson will again sponsor the race and they will take place starting at 11 a.m., Saturday. They are hiliarious to watch and anyone can enter.

With summer fast approaching, it is necessary for the locals to understand the mystical youths who will descend upon Lake Tahoe. We tend to use the "generation gap" to explain away every conflict between the old and the young and we write off our own shortcomings at the generation gap's expense. The sterotype of youth is that there's nothing wrong with it that a little age won't cure. This is erroneous thinking just as much so as the view that old age is an evil. We live in an age over-populated with youth (have you looked at the styles lately - all geared for youth!) and this neurotic, self-defeating time has made a cult out of youth. Mutual respect between young and old might be too ideal to expect, but the "generation gap" is only as unbreachable as we make it. There will always be a gap between the generations, but it needn't be the ogre we have concocted.

Arrest Two For Drugs

Richard Thomas Card, 30, and his wife, Roslyn Carol Card, 24, both of Olympic Valley, were arrested by Placer County Sheriff's deputies on a charge of possession of marijuana and a quantity of pills. The evidence was found after the deputies were issued a search warrant. The couple operates Smokey's Kitchen in Squaw Valley. Both were released on their own recognizance.

David Bailey Brown, 37, of Reno, was arrested Sunday by the California Highway Patrol on a charge of drunken driving. Additionally, Brown was charged by Nevada County Sheriff's deputies with assault and battery.

Seek Applications For Deputy Sheriff

Placer County has invited applications for the position of deputy sheriff at Lake Tahoe.

Qualifications for the position, which pays $613 to $745 a month plus $50 subsistence, were listed as follows: graduation from high school; possession of a valid California motor vehicle operator's license; minimum age of 21 and maximum age of 35 at time of appointment; minimum height 5' 9" with weight in proper proportion to height; vision 20/70 uncorrected; corrected to 20/30 in each eye; good health and free from disabling defects.

Applicants must have been a Placer County resident for at least one year. A written examination will be given to applicants who meet the minimum qualifications. An oral board will evaluate candidates further.

Requests for applications should be made to the Personnel Department, Administrative Center, Auburn.

Trout Season

Opening day of trout season for Lake Almanor, Donner Lake and Jenkinson Lake will be April 4, according to word received today from Terry Hickman, local Fish and Game warden.

Hickman said he wanted to clear up any misunderstanding about the trout season opening date.

1040

You may be filling out a new 1040 income tax form this year that combines the old 1040 and 1040A forms. If you have a tax question, look in the white pages of your phone book under "United States Government, Internal Revenue Service" to find the number of your nearest office.

With movie star Lee Marvin as host-narrator, the Bell System will present "It Couldn't Be Done," a color television special paying tribute to American "builders of the impossible." Air date is Thursday, April 2. Check your newspaper for time and station.

The program will salute the people who achieved such projects as Mt. Rushmore Memorial, the Panama Canal, Golden Gate Bridge and Holland Tunnel. Musical accompaniment will be provided by The Fifth Dimension.

Phillips Petroleum jobbers throughout Northern California and Nevada recently had a "Big Ten" contest for the jobber who sold the most of their products last year. Guess who won? None other than our own Charlie Osburn here in Truckee. His grand prize was 225 books of Blue Chip Stamps with a retail value of $675. He and Nonie skittered off to Reno immediately to choose items in this amount at the Reno store. Second and third place went to jobbers in Fresno and Placerville. Congratulations, Charlie!

Lucky Bob Affeldt, our good dentist, will be leaving on the 25th for a three week tour to the most interesting places with the Bible Land Seminar. Some of the countries and cities are Jerusalem, Athens, Rome, Baghdad, Beirut, Egypt, Israel – the Vatican and more. All the points with biblical history will be toured. Some archeologists will go along too. They will leave from Los Angeles. Good traveling, Bob, and don't forget your diary 'cause we'll want to hear all about it. (Joan's staying home and doesn't mind at all).

Had Sunday dinner with Felix and Bebe Turillas at South Tahoe in their new home in Skyland. Talk about a mansion! It has around 3,400 square feet all on one floor so you can easily imagine the sprawling effect. Every room is huge and the three baths are practically the size of my living room. I'm sure some of you know Felix from Felix's Bank Club in Lovelock.

On our way over, we stopped through Tyrolean Village by Ski Incline and those are the cutest houses anywhere. Take a drive up if you haven't seen them and you'll swear you're in some Alpine community. That Incline shore is one long string of condominiums. That's a sight in itself. Some have architectural class and some haven't but the building that has gone on there the past year is truly unbelievable.

I had my little VHF radio out Saturday in order to follow the search and rescue procedure on the downed jet behind Prosser Lake Heights. Of course the pilot ejected and guided himself beautifully down on the freeway and when picked up, was walking along the side with his parachute neatly tucked under his arm. The accompanying jets flew so low in circles around my home, I had the feeling one could end up inside. Sort of nerve–wracking.

Rumors are flying that our post office may be moved so I called Louise McCallum for the straight of it. She states that there was a survey made by a postal inspector but she has received no word from it, so at the moment, it is just a rumor. Naturally, many people are opposed to the thought of it as it certainly wouldn't help Truckee to lose it and there is property for sale both beside it and behind for expansion if this might be the reason. Louise said there is a petition in the post office for anyone to sign who wishes rural delivery of mail to any location over a half–mile from the edifice. She said there hasn't been much response so maybe no one wants delivery.

Had a note from Harriet Barrett with a couple of items for the column. She said Mr. and Mrs. David Pereria (formerly Judy McGwinn) hosted a reception given in their home at San Francisco for Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Keefe, who are newlyweds, (formerly Carol Brenick). Among the guests were Mrs. William Mesquita of Sacramento and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ludu (Marcie Leamon) of Corning. The four young matrons have had a continued friendship since graduation from Tahoe–Truckee High. She also told me that Bernal Phipps, a senior at the University of Pacific was presented with first award in his chosen profession of Engineering. The presentation event occurred at Sacramento. He is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Phipps now of West Sacramento who were well known residents of Truckee for a number of years. Mrs. Phipps continues as teacher in the valley school. Thank you, Harriett, and best wishes to you and Walt, also.

Supervisors Angry At Late Budgets

Several county department heads had their "wrists slapped" by the board of supervisors for failing to submit their 1970–71 budget requests on time.

Most department budgets were ready so the supervisors could divide into committees and begin persuing the requests in the afternoon.

However, several were not, including district attorney, public works, sheriff, home health agency and the Grass Valley and Truckee justice courts.

Chairman Willie Curran expressed irritation that these budgets had not been submitted in time to get the material before the board as was ordered earlier.

"We have a schedule to follow" in studying budgets, Curran said, adding that department heads "had ample time. I wonder if we should slap them on the wrists."

Then the chairman suggested, and the other supervisors agreed, that it be assumed these officials wish no change in their expenditures, leaving next year's budgets at the same level as this year's.

Later in the morning, Public Works Director Harry Hider and Sheriff Wayne Brown absolved themselves from the board's ire.

Hider explained that his budgets were filed with Auditor John Trauner but weren't ready sooner because of the complications of his budgets.

Curran admitted that the road department has a "big budget" and indicated he would accept Hilder's answer.

Sheriff Brown said prices on items he will need to buy were not available from the purchasing office until last week, but admitted he had "insufficient time to complete the budget because we started too late. We didn't allow ourselves enough time."

The straightforwardness of that statement impressed Curran, who commented:

"The chair will recognize that as sufficient excuse."

Curran indicated he had been irritated at the missing budgets because he and Supervisor Robert Long were scheduled to review two of them – public works and district attorney.

Supervisor Dean Lawrence felt the department heads should have "explained or asked for an extension of time instead of just ignoring" the deadline.

The idea then evolved of leaving the unreported departments with the same budgets as this year.

The sheriff might have been delighted with that approach had his reason not been accepted, because he said his budget for next year is $40,000 below this year's.

Those budgets still not submitted undoubtedly will be studied when they do come in, however.

The supervisors are trying a two – member committee system for initial budget reviews this year. Later, the full board will review each budget.

Breakwater Protest Filing Deadline Set

Opponents of a 595-foot breakwater and dredging of 10,000 cubic yards of material from the bottom of Lake Tahoe at Star Harbor Marina have until April 6 to file their protests with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Sacramento.

Tahoe Associates, the developer, is seeking approval to create a 110-boat marina for a condominium project near Lake Forest. California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency has approved the development, but not the dredging. The agency's Technical Advisory Committee has approved the breakwater.

State officials have said, however, the proposal violates shoreline construction regulations of the California Resources Agency.

Snow Talk

Spring has sprung! Corn snow and clear skies are here. The robins have returned and the fish are starting to jump in Donner Lake just waiting for the first fisherman's cast April 4. Wonder how fishing will be this year since the lake didn't freeze over this winter. We'll soon know.

Get out the tanning lotion, straw hats and colorful wind shirts for the warmer days of skiing, and don't forget the picnic basket.

Most resorts plan to stay open longer than the traditional Easter week which starts off next weekend.

Lots of activities for the week are planned, special races, egg hunts, hat parades, a dog show in Truckee next Monday, a ski down the summit to Donner Lake. Just check with your favorite resort and you'll find something great going on each day of the week.

Truckee-Donner Pioneer Tells Fishing Story Of 1945

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was printed in the Sierra Sun issue of March 22, 1945. It was written by Oscar Schumacher who has resided in the Truckee-Donner area for the past 60 years and is a former Game Warden.

By OSCAR SCHUMACHER

Lately and during the past year so many different opinions and arguements have been heard about the fishing conditions and the scarcity of fish in Donner Lake that I feel that I should inform the sportsmen about the facts of the conditions concerning this famous lake.

During the past 30 years I have fished Donner Lake for various species of trout, catfish, chubs, minnows and white fish, I have made it a point to study the lake as to food and water as well as the natural enemies so destructive to fish life and shall tell what seem to be the facts about the scarcity of fish in these waters. It is well known that mackinaw trout are quite numerous in Donner Lake and some of this species have grown to a size of 60 pounds since they were planted there about 45 years ago. The man who planted these fish in Donner Lake and also in Lake Tahoe, has long since passed away. Doubtlessly he thought he was performing a good deed, when, in truth he succeeded in doing just the opposite. The mackinaw is a deep water fish and will not hunt for food on top of the water nor in the shallows along the shore. Consequently, his principal food is fish. Many a trout disappears in the hungry mouth of this big fellow, although close observation shows that the chub is his main menu. While the mackinaw is destructive to trout, he is not the real enemy of the fish in Donner Lake that honor goes to the lowly fresh water clam.

The fresh water clam lives in the shallow water, but is found also at a depth of 15 feet. Donner Lake abounds with these destructive creatures. When the fresh water clams are laying their eggs during the summer months, which is also the time when the smaller fish are feeding along the shores in the shallow waters, the real destruction is brought about. The eggs of the slam are so small they cannot be observed by the naked eye are are washed about in the shallow waters and during this process they are lodged in the gills of the fish where they take a firm hold and they suck the blood of the fish. Any fish up to six inches so infected by two or more of these eggs will die inside of two days. The larger fish so infected will have enough resistance to overcome the infection and may survive. Whenever such a breeding of fresh water clams occurs in Donner Lake the shores are lined with dead fish and the people think a disease has broken out among the fish in the lake.

During the past 30 years I have seen the shores of Donner Lake lined with thousands of dead trout, minnows, catfish and chubs. The egg of the clam is no respector of species. Examination under the microscope of these dead fish shows plainly that the eggs of the clam and not disease have done the deadly work.

The best way to destroy these thousands of clams is to draw all the water from the lake down to the rim. By so doing thousands of clams will be left high and dry and will die.

So much ballyhooing has been done about destroying the beauties of Donner Lake by drawing all the water out of it that I say th "squawkers" don't know what they are hollering about. The Donner Lake Company and also the former owners have drawn the water down to the rim for many years and never has the lake failed to fill up again in the spring. While the empty shores of Donner Lake look somewhat barren with the water low, they are clean, much cleaner that the streets and allies of some towns.

The sight of the barren shores of Donner Lake are easy to behold when you consider that the ten feet of fresh snow water in the spring will restore beauty and the fresh water is essential to fish life.

Donner Lake should be emptied every fall on account of flood control.

Our local sportsmen know what flood waters do to our fish life so why not control these flood conditions as far as it is humanly possible. This control can only be accomplished by having Donner Lake and Boca Reservoir emptied down to the rim every fall and then let the rains come! We shall know we are secure and that we shall not have to open the gates on the highly swollen Truckee River.

During my residence in Truckee I have seen all three gates of Donner Lake have to be opened during a rain storm and the waters of the lake added to the already turbulent waters of the Truckee river have caused a tremendous loss of fish life. We should have had a recurrence last fall (1944) if the rain had continued, as Donner Lake at that time was within one and a half foot of being full, when it should have been down to the rim.

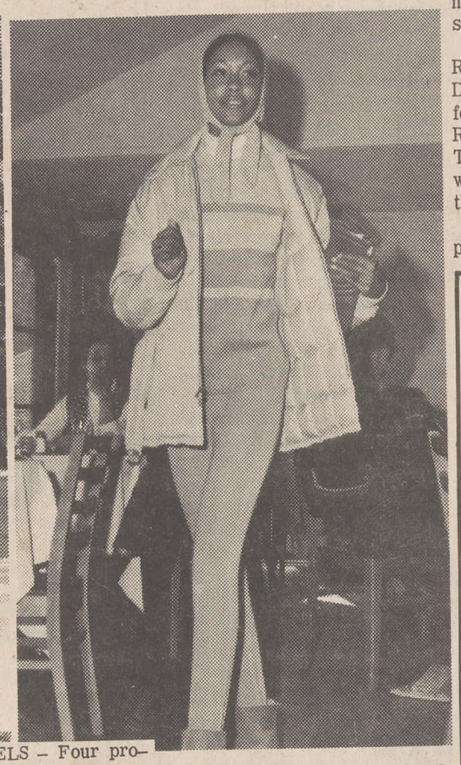
A water master employed by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation and working out of Reno is in charge of this very important job. Evidently this man has little concern for the fish life in the Truckee River. Last year and also this year the coldest days of the season to close the gates of Tahoe and by a few turns of the wheel caused death to thousands of spawn and to hundreds of trout, both large and small.

The condition of the Truckee River above the confluence of Donner Creek was a sorry sight for any sportsman. The Truckee River from Donner Creek up to Tahoe was a solid mass of ice, with a loss of all the fish in that stretch of the waters.

I contend that no man in any position should be allowed to bring on such wholesale destruction of fish life when there is no need of so doing. The sportsmen of this vicinity and of the state must take steps to prevent a recurrence of this loss.

I have heard it said that the lowering of the water would deprive the fish of a lot of food, that drops from overhanging branches during the summer months. Horse Feathers! While it is true that the small fish do a lot of top feeding, when insects abound their main supply is in the lake itself. Over one-half of the area of Donner Lake is covered by an intense growth of water plants and moss. Some of these plants attain a height of twenty-five feet or more and upon close examination of this marine garden we find all the plants abound with water bugs which provide the main diet for fish in Donner Lake.

The big fellow will not bother about the small stuff, but goes after bigger game, such as minnows, chubs and trout - and here enters the mackinaw again. I cannot see why anyone should want the season on these enemies shortened. In fact there should be open season on mackinaw in Donner and Tahoe lakes all the year round.



VOGUE MODELS – Four professional models from Valentine Modeling Agency in San Francisco joined fashion conscious members, relatives and guests of Naomi Rebekah Lodge No. 2 in presenting an array of the latest winter ensembles and a preview of the spring fashion scene in a luncheon style parade Saturday at Donner Lake Lodge. Fashions were obtained from Besios and Cabonas of Truckee and Porters and Butlers of Tahoe City.

Sugar Bowl Celebrates 30th Season

Sugar Bowl – fourth largest ski area in California and Nevada, and the biggest on Donner Summit – is celebrating its 30th ski season with completion of a third–of–a–million dollar expansion and modernization.

The major expansion program is highlighted by three new lifts – two high–speed double chairs and a T–bar.

Don Schwartz, general manager – vice president of the Sierra's "prestige address for skiers" 180 miles east of San Francisco, provides a rundown of the new and modernized facilities.

"First, two speedy chairs have replaced the old, slow–moving chair which climbed to the peak of 8,383–foot–high Mt. Lincoln. Skiers going to the top of Lincoln this seasor will get in twice as many runs because the new chairs will save them eight minutes in riding time.

"The new Lincoln No. 1 chair is 2,700 feet long, has a vertical rise of 292 feet, transports 1,200 skiers per hour, and ends at the bottom of Emil's Ridge. It provides a link to two lifts—the Christmas Tree Ridge chair and the new Lincoln No. 2 chair.

"The Lincoln No. 2 chair begins at Lincoln Meadow, is located just 100 feet from the top terminal of Lincoln No. 1. This chair is 3,600 feet long, with an impressive vertical of 1,150 feet, and an hourly capacity of 1,000 skiers.

"Both Lincoln chairs feature foam–padded seats. The latest in riding comfort, the lifts were constructed by Ski–Lift International.

Second, a new International T–bar has replaced our former platter pull on the lower slopes of Mt. Disney. Thus, we now have six double chairs, gondola, T–bar, and rope tow.

"Third, the Mt. Disney chair – knocked out of service and damaged by last season's 100–year blizzards – has undergone a complete overhaul. The terminal atop 7,953–foot Disney has been rebuilt, a new off–loading ramp has been constructed at the top, and a new cable, chair grips, and seat cushions have been installed.

"Fourth, we have created a completely new slope for beginners and intermediates at the bottom of Mt. Lincoln. Additionally, we have redesigned the lower Lincoln slopes to eliminate the flat spot which formerly required 50 yards of walking. Everyone can now ski to our lodge–hotel with ease."

Another big plus factor is that there has been no increase in lift prices – despite the new installations and major improvements.

Surrounded by majestic 8,000–foot granite peaks, Sugar Bowl's features include:

— Free skiing is provided all youngsters under 12 on the 800–foot–long rope tow.

— There is night skiing every Tuesday, Thursay, and Saturday on the Nob Hill double chairlift slopes.

— It has long, long runs and a variety of terrain for all classes of skier, from wide open slopes easily negotiated by beginners to sheer headwalls and white mantled forests challenging the skill of experts.

— It has daily apres–ski activity; discotheque dancing, first–run movies, and a beer stube in the Chalet; a cocktail lounge in the lodge–hotel; and teen dancing and recreation in the remodeled Rathskeller. The latter also has "exciting Tyrolean nights," with Austrian instructors and staff members performing.

— It has a nationally recognized ski school co–directed by Toni Marth and Alex Brogle.

— All runs eventually terminate at the 4–level lodge–hotel, which has deluxe and standard hotel rooms, men's and women's dormitories, dining room, cocktail lounge, public rooms, day cafeteria, and ski lockers.

— The established Bill Klein Ski Shop has new ski, boot, and equipment rentals this season.

Pacific Telephone Asks Service Rate Increase

Pacific Telephone today said it will soon seek rate increase totaling $195 million annually from its nearly six million California customers to continue to meet growing demands for quality service and to offset mounting inflationary costs and declining earnings.

The company said its current low level of earnings - estimated at 5.82 per cent for 1970 - is inadequate to finance construction programs totaling more than $1.5 billion for 1970 and 1970, the need for large quantities of equipment, and improved wages for its work force.

The company said it will file a formal application sometime next week with the California Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco.

If approved, rates for basic one-party residential service would be increased by about $1.85 per month in most cities. For business customers, the increase inthe cost of basic service would amount to about $3.80 a month.

Thus, in Homewood for example, monthly bills for basic residential service would increase from $4.75 to $6.60 and for basic business service from $9 to $12.80; in North Tahoe residential service would increase from $4.95 to $6.80, business service would increase from $9.40 to $13.40; and in Truckee residential service would increase from $5.15 to $7 and business service would increase from $9.85 to $14.

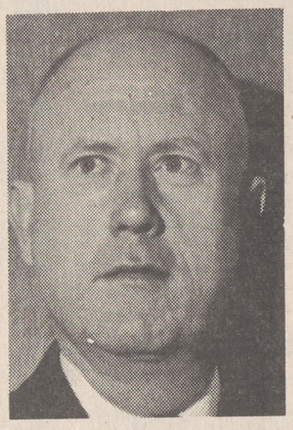
The company pointed out its estimated 1970 rate of return of 5.82 per cent is "below both the actual and the authorized rate of return of any major California utility. It is far below the cost of Pacific Telephone's most recent issue of debt - sold at a cost to the company of 9.2 per cent - and it is well below the rate of return previously authorized by the commission."

What is required is a "reasonable and necessary" rate of return in the range of 8½ to 9 per cent, the company said.

Such an improvement in earnings, the firm said, will enhance the company's ability to attract and hold good employes by maintaining a competitive wage structure in the years ahead.

In making its decision to request an increase in basic service rates, the company noted that the level of rates has been virtually unchanged in the past 10 years.

Even with proposed increases, the rates paid by California customers will remain "in good relationship" to rates sharged elsewhere, the company said.



WILLIAM D. HAGER
. . . seeks office

Hager Files For County Judicial Post

William D. Hager has announced his candidacy for judge of the Nevada County Superior Court.

When making his announcement he said:

"The office of Superior Court Judge is one of the most, if not the most, important posts in the county and is not to be taken lightly. The selection of a new judge should be based entirely on the qualifications of each candidate and must not become a popularity contest. As the voters are offered a wide selection, careful consideration is required. The superior candidate must be elected."

He believes the office should be "above politicas," and said that he is prepared to offer "competence, integrity and dedication."

Hager is the public defender, a post to which he was appointed in November, 1967. He previously practiced law in Alameda county and opened his Grass Valley office in May, 1965.

He came to California during World War II when he served in the United States Navy with the famed Bombing Squadron 8 aboard the USS Bunker Hill and the USS Bennington. He retired from the Naval Reserve in 1958 with the rank of commander.

Following the war he was an engineer with the University of California Radiation Laboratory in Berkeley until his admission to practice of law.

Hager was graduated from Fordham University in 1940 and received his law degree from the University of San Francisco School of Law in 1950. He is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, the state and federal courts in California, and the Court of Military Appeals.

Children Invited To Concert

The Sacramento Symphony will give two performances in South Lake Tahoe on April 18, including a free matinee for youngsters only.

The Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District will supply bus transportation to the afternoon performance for any child in Kindergarten through the twelfth grade, who is a resident of the district.

The two performances by the 83-musician orchestra, with Harry Newstone conducting, will be given Saturday, April 18, in the High Sierra Room of the Sahara-Tahoe under the auspices of the city of South Lake Tahoe and the South Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce.

"I'm sure many persons in this area are as excited as I am by prospects of these concerts," Mayor Norm Woods said. "The City and the Sacramento Symphony association are extremely hopeful that an appearance by the Sacramento Symphony will become an annual spring event at South Lake Tahoe."

The appearance by the symphony could well usher in a relationship between musically-minded local persons and the Sacramento Symphony in which music recognition here would benefit.

Lake Tahoe, Wednesday, March 18, 1970

Racer Clips Records

Incline's Dorothy Mercer, 28, asked no quarter and showed no mercy last weekend as she slid onto an experimental Polaris and out-ran everything in sight at the West Yellowstone Snowmobile Races at West Yellowstone, Mont.

"Easily winning" the main event Sunday in the national speed record meet, the Incline racer also took first place honors in the Powder Pugg, 340 and 440 and in the trophy dash. In the process, she broke two snowmobile speed records.

Miss Mercer, the guest of honor Saturday night at a dinner hosted by the governor of Montana, set the woman's record in the quarter-mile race with a speed of 107.1 mph. The old mark was 74 mph and the best time in the men's races was 109.9 mph so the local woman actually came in second to the men's mark.

In the half-mile run, Miss Mercer used a Polaris stock production machine to snap the record for both men and women with a clocking of 88.32 mph.

Ella Mae Porter, Mrs. Mercer's sister, finished second in the main event Sunday, but did not finish in the Powder Puff because of mechanical failure.

Both were Kings Castle entries and both raced in the recent Kings Castle $50,000 Snowmobile Grand Prix.

Castle Names New Director

Glenda Phinney, 24, joined the staff of Kings Castle on March 11 as director of public relations.

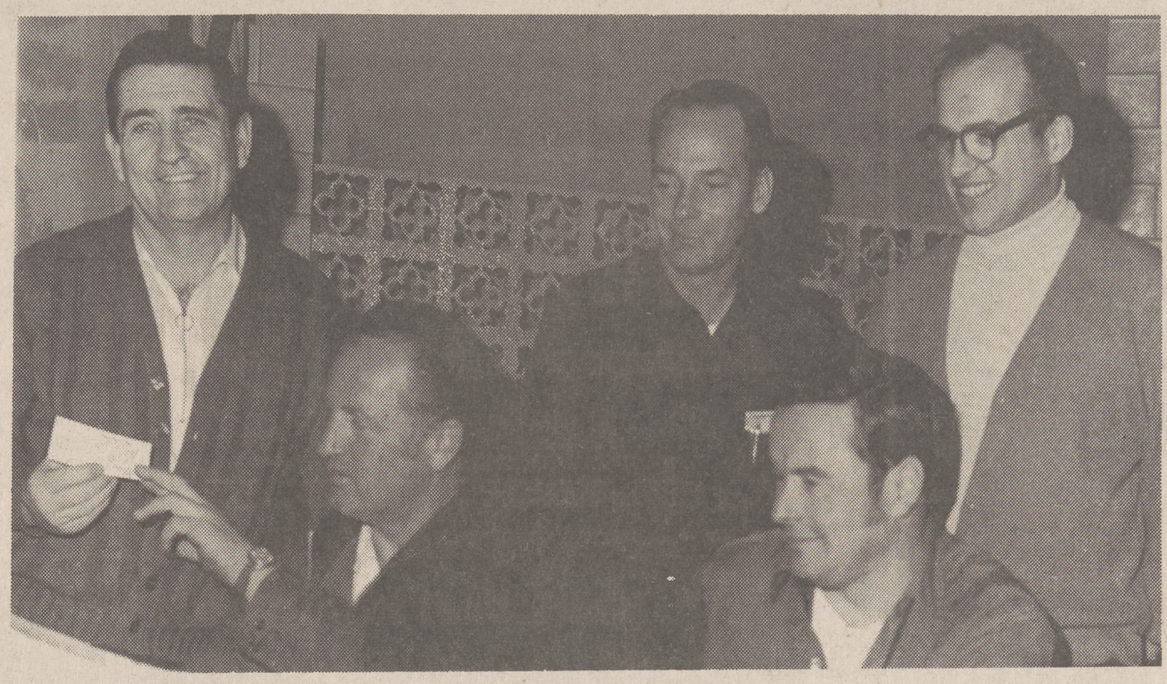
Miss Phinney was previously the assistant director of public relations at a hotel on Lake Tahoe's south shore. Her background includes experience as an advertising account executive and three years of writing and producing voices for talking dolls.

Effluent Safe, Engineer States

According to sanitary engineer Ernest Gregory, of the Nevada Environmental Health Division, effluent entering the Carson Valley from Incline Village and Round Hill will be "bacteriologically safe."

Gregory also feels that the water will "definitely be safe" for agricultural use, and danger to humans and livestock is remote. If ranchers divert the effluent to agricultural use during the summer, the Carson River would not become polluted.

The water, however, will contain other, non-bacteriological pollutants, including phosphates the organic compounds. The presence of phosphates in the river may increase the problems of the Dayton area, where summer algae in the river have caused serious odor problems.



WHAT'S FOR DINNER? - It's a good question, but Ray Plunket, standing left, general manager of Crystal Bay Club, assures Optimist Club members their "April Fools Benefit Banquet" food will be superb as he buys the first ticket to the event. Getting together to work out the menu are, seated, Woody Burris, president and Ron Cromwell, dinner chairman; standing, Jack Johannes with Bruce Preston, dinner cochairman. Cromwell said the dinner is scheduled for the Crystal Bay Club, Friday, April 3. A grand prize and many other prixes will be awarded and dinner will be followed by dancing. The event is open to the public with tickets available from all Optimist members. Proceeds go to the club's local and national youth program Incline Village News

Delays Cause Call-Off Of Cal-Neva Sale

A spokesman for Club Cal Neva in Reno and the Cal-Neva Lodge at Crystal Bay has acknowledged the club's sale to Denny's Restaurants, Inc., was called off, and he placed the blame on the restaurant firm.

Attorneys for Sierra Development Co., which owns the casino and casino-hotel Friday said reason for termination of the agreement with the La Mirada, Calif., firm was because delays in Denny's gambling license application meant it could not be granted by the contract's March 31 deadline.

The agreement announced last year called for payments of up to $16 million for the two establishments. Although Denny's gambling license application was approved by the State Gaming Control Board, the Gaming Commission returned the application for further study.

"I DIDN'T BRING MY GLUE TODAY!" - Librarian Audrey Anderson has Grant Conway, Clark Lind, Carol Galli, Marnie Pratt and Kevin Huntado enthralled during "Very Young Story Time" last Wednesday at the Incline Branch, Washoe County Library. Stories, pictures and "rythms and fingers" occupy the 10:30 a.m. half hour for pre-schoolers with such exercises as "Where is themb man? - here I am" or "Two Little apples peek at me, high in the tree - -". Imaginary zippers and glue are present, too, as youngsters become too voluble or cannot remain seated. Marnie topped everyone last week, when she jumped to her feet announcing "I didn't bring my glue today." Mrs. Anderson said the class has been most successful and she hope to schedule another series in the near future.

Shooting Victim Still Listed As 'Serious'

Jerry Dean Meunier is reported still serious in the intensive care unit at Washoe Medical Center following an attempt to take her own life Friday.

Deputies at the Incline Substation of the Washoe County Sheriff's Office report they responded to a call from Mrs. Meunier's 14 year old son. They found Mrs. Meunier in the Bathroom in a semi-conscious state and suffering from two bullet wounds.

Deputies say a 22 caliber semi-automatic rifle was used. They report Mrs. Meunier has been involved in several problems recently.

In other sheriff's office activities, Larry Wittman of Kings Beach sustained head and face injuries and an apparently broken shoulder in a single vehicle accident on Highway 28 on the Crystal Bay Hill.

Deputies report Wittman's motorcycle apparently went out of control on slippery pavement.

Investigation continues on burglary of a cash box at the boat ramp entrance at the Nevada State Park. Deputies report the cash box padlock had been twisted off and an estimated $15 is missing.

An automobile reported stolen from in front of an Incline residence by Ralph J. Yopp of Reno was returned voluntarily by juveniles who have been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Steven H. Klein of Kensington, Calif. was cited for unsafe mountain driving when he lost control of his car on wet pavement of Highway 28.

A hearing on a petite larceny charge was set for Monday, March 16 in Reno Justice Court for Frederich A. von Brincken, 19. Douglas Young, assistant manager of Eagle Thrifty Store at Incline, placed von Brincken under citizens arrest when the youth was observed taking a tube of shampoo without paying. Van Brincken was released on $100 bail following booking at the Incline Sbustation.

HUD Names Boise Cascade

Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development announced that Boise Cascade Corp. has been selected for participation in Operation Breakthrough.

Boise Cascade's proposal was one of 22 selected from a field of 246 for the HUD program to spur housing production for low-and-middle-income families.

The 22 companies will now enter a detailed planning and negotiation phase to develop plans for site development. This phase is expected to be completed sometime this year.

Phase 11, the construction of prototype housing units, could begin this year. When completed, the units will be subjected to testing and evaluation for design flexibility, cost, land use, durability and consumer acceptance.

Romney said from this testing phase his department would develop criteria for award of HUD "seal of approval" which would be applied to all certified housing systems.

Communities which develop housing with HUD approved systems would receive priority for government subsidies and community services grants.

Boise Cascade President R.V. Hansberger said, "The well-being of many millions of people demand Operation Breakthrough be brought to a successful conclusion."

Boise Cascade housing development General Manager William Hooper said Boise Cascade would offer three fabrication systems to produce single-family residences, garden apartments, townhouses, mid-rise apartments and community buildings.

BANTAM CHAMPS - Rockey Dunham, David Parsons, Casey Gawreonski and Steven Parsons display their trophies and awards as Bantam League champions and first place team at award event held early this month at Incline Bowl. The Bantams just concluded league play for the winter season. The league has been sponsored by the Kindred Construction Co., the Rams Head, Title Insurance and Warren's Radiator.

Bi-State Session Is Called

Gov. Paul Laxalt Monday signed the proclamation calling the California-Tahoe Regional Planning Agency into session.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan signed the proclamation earlier in the day in Sacramento.

The signing is the last formality to bring the California Nevada Bi-State Agency into operation. The first meeting will be held Thursday following swearing-in ceremonies for the appointees from both states at Carson City.

The bi-state planning agency, charged with controlling development and protecting the Tahoe Basin, was created by congressional legislation signed by President Nixon last December.

FIRST FORMAL INSTALLATION - Barbara Phillips, center, was installed Thursday as president of the Multiple Listing Service of Incline-Crystal Bay during a dinner held at the Crystal Bay Club. Installed with her were from left, Wes Howell, treasurer, and Past President Fred Schultz, director. At right is Ted Mattson of Reno who spoke on education in organized real estate and the programs the realtors present. Mattson is a past president of the Nevada Association of Realtors. Other special guests were Joe Allison and Reed Marquardt of Lawyers Title in Reno. The latter firm expects to open an office soon at Incline. Not present was MLS secretary, Rod Campbell. Tournament Play Ends Bowl Season

Bowling activities at Incline Bowl reach a peak this spring as March, April and May tournaments culminate in participation in the Nevada State Tournament in June.

Incline junior teams will participate in this tournament to be held in Las Vegas.

Now in progress and continuing through Saturday, March 27, is the Incline Bowl Fourth Annual Bowlers Victory Legion Tournament. This is a national program with tournaments held throughout the United States.

All proceeds go to veterans hospitals.

Incline's Junior and Bantam Leagues will participate next weekend in the Reno City Tournament.

Incline women bowlers will get into the heavy competition when five teams travel from Incline Bowl to Tulsa, Okla. for the Women's International Bowling Congress April 28.

During the 10 days from May 15 through May 24, seven to 10 mens teams and 16 to 17 women's teams from Incline Bowl will participate in the men's and women's State Tournaments to be held in Reno.

ENGENUITY IS THE KEY - Engenuity is the key to success as youngsters at the Incline Elementary School participate in the National Library Week poster contest to be judged tomorrow (Thursday) at Reno. Here Kevin Sargent has just finished hanging one of his three entries on the the school library wall and is about to hang Heather Huckins' entry. Both are sixth grade students. Winning posters will be displayed during library week April 12 to 18 at Washoe County Libraries in Reno, Sparks and Incline. A book award will be given the winning poster in each of three grade groups. Grand award chosen from the winning three entries will be reproduced as a book mark to be used in the children's departments of the county library system. Incline News Photo

Officers Named At 4-H Club Meet

A meeting of the Inclines Foods 4-H Club was held at the home of Mrs. Richard Bullard.

During the meeting new officers were elected. They are: president, Lee Ann Wild; vice President, Kym O'Malior; secretary, Jeanne Cangemi; treasurer Pam Fowler; reporter, Lisa Reeves; and sargent at arms, Leisa Echevarrieta.

Other activities at the meeting included learning how to make fudge frosting and cup cakes.

Principal Is Named

Carl Robinson, 42, vice principal of Sparks High School, was named principal of Incline High School at Lake Tahoe Wednesday.

Robinson has been at Sparks for 14 years, the last seven as vice principal. He will begin the principalship of the 300-student school in July.

Carl Shaff, high school and elementary school principal in Incline Village, will become full-time elementary principal this summer.

Robinson, who lives at 3232 Susileen Drive, Reno, is the father of five children. His wife's name is Patricia.

Robinson was born in Norwood, Mo., and attended high school in California. He received bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Nevada, where he was a football player in the late 40s and early 50s.

Shellfish Dinner Benefit Is Set

El-Ta-Ho Shrine Club of North Lake Tahoe has announced its annual fund raising Shellfish Dinner will be held Friday, March 27 at Crystal Bay Club.

President Jim Warrington announced the event is open to all Shriners, their wives and guests. Cocktails are slated for 7 o'clock and dinner at 8 plm.

Paul Paxton, secretary, said proceeds of the fun-social all go to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital.

Between Scenes

Don Chastain, Debbie Reynolds' husband on NBC-TV's new comedy series, "The Debbie Reynolds Show," entertains the studio audience between scenes by singing a few tunes.

Homeowners Must Install Meters

The sewer collection lines now being laid in the streets of Incline are slated for completion by this fall, allowing homes having the greates trouble with inadequate septic tanks to be connected first, according to the Incline Village general Improvement District.

Some of the pump stations will not be finished and ready to use until Sept. 1, 1970. The treatment plant, which is being expanded to 3-million gallons per day capacity, will not be ready until early 1971, but the existing plant will take care of all new homes being built, plus those that need to abandon their septic tanks.

W. W. (Wally) White, district general manager, said the export line along Nevada Highway 28, from Incline Village to Spooners Summit is ahead of schedule and should be completed by May, 1, ahead of summer traffic. He said the entire export line should be ready to use by the end of this year.

Homeowners were notified that they would be required to have water meters installed when the sewer hookup is made. The sewer connection charge is $75 and the water meters will cost about $101.50, the letter states.

White said many homeowners were being called upon by contractors at the present time, giving estimates of the cost of disconnecting old septic tanks and hooking onto the street sewer lines. He said septic tanks should be filled with sand, when abandoned, as a safety precaution.

Property owners have paid for the sewer line out of the assessment district okayed last year, but they will not have to hook on until the new plant and export line are functioning.

The first area to be sewered is the Mill Creek subdivision, where hookups will commence in May.

Library Seeks Mementos

Are grandpa's and grandma's "worthless" mementos of value for research?

Robert D. Armstrong, special collections librarian at the University of Nevada, says' they may well be. And he's willing to find out by taking a look at them before they're relagated to the dump.

Armstrong said the department is interested in correspondence, maps, business records, personal papers, diaries, social mementos and many other kinds of documents. He said the library transports the items it feels would be valuable.

'Great Geniuses'

Jackie Gleason, star of "The Jackie Gleason Show" on the CBS Television Network, says he considers Orson Welles and Bishop Sheen two of the world's great geniuses, "but not necessarily in that order."

Realtor Lauds Bible

Fred Schultz, chairman of the Incline Village Multiple Listing Service (realtors) Thursday lauded Nevada Sen. Alan Bible for his perserverance in favor of the small business man.

Bible, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee is author of a tax bill amendment wherein the seven per cent investment tax credit for the nation's small businessmen and farmers with $250,000 or less annual taxable income would be continued.

Sen. Bible told the Senate the tax reform bill threatens "an unintended overkill against small business" in its efforts to curb tax abuses, plug exemption loopholes and fight inflation.

The Bible amendment would preserve the seven per cent tax credit up to $20,000 of investment, identical with what Congress did in 1966 when the investment tax credit was suspended except for qualifying small businesses.

"Small business is the heart of our American free enterprise system and to stifle it in the name of an anti-inflation move does not square the facts," Bible said.

"Large corporations, not the small businessman, are exerting the bulk of inflationary pressures on the economy by borrowing and investing policies," he said.

Bible quoted figures showing that small business accounted for only 10 per cent of the tax credit granted while the country's larger corporations with $1 million or more of annual taxable income accounted for almost 75 per cent of the total tax credit.

Brooks' Boutique Collection Dazzles the Eye

PRINTS AND PATTERNS ... Designer Donald Brooks' boutique collection bedazzles the eye. (Left to right) Navajo and Seminole prints in stone and black with touches of red, green and yellow, make delightfully different water-repellent travel coats. Lounge in colorful daisies, poppies and dandelions; these bare midriff pajamas feature sparkling flowers on a field of black polished cotton. Brooks' Indian maidens wear silk organza gowns — the hemlines measure 12 inches off the floor.

RAINE OR SHINE RESORTWEAR ... Shine in a white crash linen three piece suit with wishbone seaming, top stitching and brass bamboo cuff links and buttons. If it rains, change into a black and white plaid cotton water-repellent trench coat. This Donald Brooks' creation, worn with plaid bias cut trousers and black matte jersey overblouse, has its own matching rainscarf.

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Donald Brooks fans will jump for joy at the news of his boutique collection. And thanks to the $75 to $250 price range of the clothes in the collection, the woman who previously could afford only to look at, but not wear, her dream designer's creations, can do her celebrating in a Brooks-designed outfit.

The boutique collection, which blends resort and spring fashions, utilizes many fabrics, including printed silks especially designed by Julian Tomchin, unusual colored linens, and matte jerseys. The dyed-in-the-wool Brooks fanatic can wear the maestro's creations from early morning to the magic hours of the evening. Even weather can't prevent a dedicated Brooks fan from showing off his designs — raincoats and rainsuits, as well as the more-to-be-expected beach shifts, are included in the collection.

Black and white cotton plaids are big with Brooks. Bias plaid dresses come with their own accessories — poker chip scarves and black leather pull-thru hip belts. Plaid hip-hugging trousers are topped by an overblouse of black matte jersey belted with red, black and white leather tie.

Gals who go for prints will want to note the tunic dress or trousers with a tunic top executed in a black, red and white puzzle print on silk linen. Red crepe makes its mark in a shirtsleeve shift with front vertical tucking running from neck to hem. The black poker chip belt worn with this outfit really isn't a gamble at all — it's sure to be a success.

Lemon yellow and poppy red with dashes of black and white form a third color grouping. Especially eyecatching is a poppy-red poplin raincoat with yellow top stitching worn over yellow wool jersey trousers and overblouse which is belted with chain and woven red leather. A red poplin rainsuit is sure to provoke both rainy and sunny day smiles.

What's spring without flowers? Daisies, poppies and dandelions in pink, blue, white and burnt orange adorn bare midriff halter top pajamas, full skirts and pants worn with cotton-wrap blouses and vests. Slit above the knee, the resortwear informals are lined in pink polished cotton.

Brass bamboo belts, cuff links and/or buttons accent white crash linen beach shifts. Jumpsuits are everywhere, in both jersey and linen. One eyecatcher, a blue jumpsuit, is completely covered with silver nailheads and belted with metal hinges laced with red suede. Handkerchief hemlines in jumpsuits are another Brooks' boutique collection trademark.

WORLD FASHION—

Sarmi Offers Resort Styles

By BETTE KNIGHT
Copyright 1970 by Scripps League Newspapers

SAN FRANCISCO – Sarmi's inspiration and the fashion image he has created are expressed in his resort and spring collection with clothes that are the essence of femininity.

This season Sarmi concerns himself with crisp, little linens and cottons for day, the short, important late-day dresses and the long evening gowns and pajamas that will be seen at so many resorts this winter and at most of the formal dinners and galas this coming spring.

The collection is varied in look and silhouette ... airy, unconstructed pastel, glitter laces worn with long Isadora scarves ... bouncy bold-printed or Swiss embroidered organzas ... small bodices of jeweled organza contrast with crisp A line skirts of L'-organza and gazar ... bare bra tops are wrapped in feather-edged scarves.

Necklines are often slashed to a deep V ... waistlines are raised slightly and usually ribbon tied. With few exceptions, Sarmi believes in the covered look. Sleeves bell out, sometimes puffed to balloon proportions.

Evening pajamas are usually jumpsuits of silk georgette combined with print overshirts, tunics of lace or appliqued organza.

The important new chiffons are triple-layered columns, bare topped, fastened with jeweled pendants held by silk cords.

Twiggy Abandons Modeling Career

LONDON (AP) – Twiggy, the 91-pound hairdresser's assistant who became a $2,500-a-week fashion model, is retiring from modeling at the age of 20.

"Once you get bored with something it shows," said Twiggy, whose real name is Lesley Hornby. She intends to learn to be a movie actress.

"I couldn't do a big, sexy role," she said. "It's got to be something nice."

When Twiggy made her debut in 1966, her gawky, flat-chested long-legged figure was the perfect hanger for Britain's mini-skirted dolly look. Now curves are coming back so Twiggy's getting out.

TAX SPECIAL – Nationally–known financial expert Sylvia Porter interviews Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy for her first network television series on income tax, "Save On Your Taxes With Sylvia Porter," airing Mondays, March 23 and 30 and April 6 on the ABC Television Network. The three–part program inauguarates the new ABC News documentary series, "Now."

Preserving Nation Subject Of Special

The greatest single challenge faced by 20th-century man - the salvaging and rehabilitation of the environment - will be the subject of a three-part ABC News documentary series, "Mission Possible," premiering Friday March 20, it was announced today by Thomas H. Wolf, ABC News Vice President in charge of Television Documentaries.

As the title suggests, "Mission Possible" will deal not only with the deteriorating environment, but also with what people can do to reverse the threat to the ecological balance - the key to the very survival of man on earth according to many scientists.

The three documentaries will deal with ways in which individuals today are successfully coping with pollution and conserving the nation's resources.

Brief synoposes of the ABC News "Mission Possible" documentaries follow:

"Mission possible: They care for a city," Friday, March 20 This program focuses on the problems faced by urban metroplix and what is currently being done to solve them. In San Francisco, conservationists such as the Sierra Club and groups of young people concerned with their city and their environment have already made some dramatic gains.

"Mission Possible: They care for the Land" Friday, April 24.

The fight to prevent the drainage of Florida's Big Cyrpess Swamp, north of the famous Everglades National Park, has been called the most controversial conservation issue in the nation. The dispute between proponents and opponents of placing a new jet airport in the swamp area has been long and bitter. At present, the jetport has been halted, due largely to the efforts of 21-year-old Joseph Browder, a field representative of the National Audubon Society. Included are spokesmen for all points of view on the question.

"Mission Possible: They Care for a Nation" Wednesday, May 20. The final documentary in this series examines the problems of envrionmental deterioration from a national viewpoint, reviewing the present situation in America and offering constructive plans for saving the future for the land. Featured are interviews with prominent government and scientific experts on ecology, among them David Gates, director of the St. Louis Botanical Garden.

MUSICAL TEAM – Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne are together in the ABC Television Network special singing songs they like, inviting the audience in to "share some thoughts and feelings." "Harry and Lena" will be presented on Sunday, March 22.

Disneyland Tour On NBC-TV

Edra Jeanne Peaker is better known as E. J. Peaker, the pert young actress who created the role of Minnie Fay in the movie version of "Hello, Dolly!"

On Sunday, March 29, Miss Peaker stars in comedy and song with the Osmond Brothers and actor Kurt Russell in "Disneyland Showtime," a musical-variety hour to be colorcast on NBC Television Network's "The Wonderful World of Disney" (7:30-8:30 p.m. PST).

Highlights of the programs, filmed entirely at Disneyland, include the Osmond Brothers offering a medley from "Hair" and Miss Peaker in a riverboat setting, singing to the tune of "Walking Happy," Kurt Russell performs with the Aggregation, a rock group.

While filming "Hello, Dolly!" Miss Peaker won a co-starring role opposite Robert Morse on TV's "That's Life." Marvin Marx, creator and executive producer of the series commented, "We chose E. J. from some 150 aspirants as the best applicant in terms of our need for a bright, young musical comedy performer who could sing, act and dance."

E. J., a 1967 Hollywood Deb, recently completed a contract with Screen Gems, where she appeared on such television series as "Occasional Wife," "That Girl," "The Flying Nun" and "Good Morning World."

Born in Tulsa, Oklahoma, Miss Peaker soon became known as E. J. when childhood playmates took it upon themselves to crop Edra Jeanne to her initials "because it was easier to say." Coming from a theatrically oriented but non-professional family, E. J. says she knew early that she would make a career of show business.

After graduating from high school, she attended the University of New Mexico for 18 months on a scholarship. There she had lead roles in several theatrical productions. She also was a cheerleader, campus queen and a member of the Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

DISNEYLAND TOUR – Pretty singer–comedienne E.J. Peaker, frolics her way through "Disneyland Showtime," a musical–variety hour filmed entirely on location, to be colorcast on NBC Television Network's "The Wonderful World of Disney" Sunday, March 22.

Boulder Flat, By Gosh

BOULDER FLAT (AP) — You won't find it on the map, but Boulder Flat is back from oblivion . . . winning recognition as one of the highest and least known of California gold boom towns.

Its five surviving buildings fashioned of Bristle Cone logs have lasted more than 100 years on a knoll 10,200 feet high on the flanks of 11,654-foot Mt. Patterson, near the Nevada border north of Yosemite National Park.

Lee Symmonds, historian and curator of the Mono County Historical Museum, chanced upon it while deer hunting with friends. They were driving across country in a jeep just after dark, and: "We came up over a rise and our headlights shined down the middle of a street. It was spooky."

The group camped on Main Street and spent the next day exploring.

"It was an experience every historian should have," Symmonds recalls. "It was a shock, surprise, a kind of 'gee whiz' because we didn't even know the place existed."

One building was a two-story hotel made of squat, gnarled logs from the Bristle Cone Tarrianus, cousin of nearby Inyo County's White Mountain Bristle Cone Pines that are regarded as the earth's oldest living things.

"The logs were so crooked the miners had to cut them in three to six-foot sections and lay them end to end like bricks to form a wall," Symmonds said.

Digging a hole, the explorers found remains of what appeared to be a blacksmith shop — with blasting powder boxes converted into cupboards hinged with leather straps. Inside the cupboards were kitchen supplies, spices and patent medicines.

"We even found two bottles of dry mustard powder that had never been unwrapped."

They also found three rare, square Coty perfume bottles, vintage late 1800s.

"We found enough in the blacksmith shop to outfit an entire shop. There was even a giant bellows from the forge. But it was the structure of the cabins themselves and the handmade furniture that fascinated us."

What's Future Of Old Mint?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Old Mint, sought by San Francisco State College as a downtown campus annex, should be used instead as a Western branch of Smithsonian Institution, a special committee asserts.

The group, appointed by Robert W. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, said Wednesday that "if regents of the Smithsonian fail to act on the Old Mint as a Western counterpart," the application of San Francisco State should be accepted.

The recommendation added that a final decision should be withheld until Dec. 1 to allow time for a Smithsonian response.

The building was completed in 1874 and served for generations as one of three mints in the nation. Replaced by a more modern structure on Market Street several years ago, the Greek — collonaded Mint has since been declared surplus.

Beautiful Joy Hawkins of NBC-TV's "Dean Martin Presents the Golddiggers," is the daughter of Burton Hawkins, press secretary for the Washington Senators of baseball's American League.

Priests Promise Protest

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A national federation claiming to represent 35,000 Catholic priests premises "drastic action" if the Vatican ignores its request to review the suspension of a group of clergymen who have opposed the Pope's views on birth control.

Concluding its four-day annual convention Thursday, the National Federation of Priests' Councils set April 20 as the deadline for a response to its request to Pope Paul VI for a judicial review of the case of 40 priests suspended in Washington, D.C., by Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle.

The 300 delegates overwhelmingly approved the motion setting up the deadline which was proposed by a committee of the NFPC chaired by the Rev. Harry Arbanas of Great Falls, Mont.

"Drastic action will be taken if a request for a review is ignored," he said.

The resolution did not offer specific details on what action should be taken, he explained, but it directed the NFPC House of Delegates to call an emergency meeting if the request is refused.

The outgoing NFPC president, the Rev. Patrick J. O'Malley of Chicago, said the suspended priests were "punished by their bishop for their stand on freedom of conscience and birth control."

Retirement Plans

Danny Arnold, amateur gourmet chef and also producer of the new NBC-TV series, "My World and Welcome To It," knows exactly where he wants to go when he retires — to the Cordon Bleu in Paris for graduate work in cookery.

State Board To Study 'Racist' Texts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A series of textbooks described as "racist" by one member of the State Board of Education are to be read closely by the board.

Dr. John R. Ford, a Negro doctor from San Diego, told his fellow board members that the books contain "the type of material that could cause a riot in a ghetto area."

He wasn't specific but said the books — recommended by state schools chief Max Rafferty— have "racist material."

Rafferty, the state superintendent of public instruction, said he had recommended the books as a "gentle suggestion" but the social studies committee of the State Curriculum Commission reacted "as if I stabbed their mother."

The books were among those considered by the commission and the board as the texts for a new social science program for kindergarten through fourth grade. They are published by Allyn and Bacon of Cleveland. A vice president of the firm, Richard S. Carroll, told the board the educational field staff of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had found the books "not racist."

However, the board tentatively went along with other books recommended by the commission. In the next few months, the books tentatively approved and the Allyn and Bacon series will be displayed in libraries throughout the state for the public to examine, before the final decision is made, the board decided.

He Can't Vote, But He's Vying

PLEASANT HILL (AP) — A City Council candidate not yet old enough to vote says his campaign is going so well he has to battle overconfidence.

At 20, Ray Slean has challenged six other candidates for City Council in this sprawling, residential community 18 miles northeast of Oakland.

Three seats are up for grabs in the April 14 election, and Slean believes he has a good chance. He already has the endorsement of the Contra Costa County Labor Council.

Youth groups throughout the 25,000-person community are campaigning for the Diablo Junior College political science major.

Slean says he has been interested in politics since his sixth-grade teacher told him he'd one day be President.

At 17, he attended the Republican National Convention in Miami "and found myself at 3 a.m. one morning being consulted" by Richard M. Nixon shortly after Nixon's presidential nomination.

"He had heard I was there as a youth observer," Slean said. "He wanted to know what portions of his acceptance speech I liked and he asked for my impressions."

The tall, handsome youth says his candidacy is "no joke" but a seriously considered decision.

Supreme Court Case Test In Busing For School Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) - For angry white parents, the Charlotte, N. C., school case pending before the Supreme Court is a pivotal test of how much busing they will have to bear for integration.

For anxious blacks, the test is whether appeals courts will block determined district judges who insist the Constitution commands a racial balance in public schools.

The Supreme Court's options are limited at this preliminary stage, though the case could flower into a milestone decision eventually.

At the moment, the court has to decide whether to 1 stay out at this point, leaving a big bus plan stalled at least until the U. S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., holds a hearing April 9, or, 2 order U. S. District Judge James B. McMillan's computor-assisted plan into effect immediately.

The scope of McMillian's desegregation order, and the vehement protests it has evoked, gives this case top legal priority.

The judge's busing command could put 14,000 additional children, by his estimate, or 23,000, by school officials', on the road.

His action, temporarily blocked by the appeals court, is significant, too, in its marked contrast to judicial wavering on desegration across the land.

Though he has lived in Charlotte for more than 30 years, McMillan has become the target of complaining whites. Some have called for his head and there are vows of a school boycott.

Even Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and one of the Nixon administration's more liberal officials, has described his order and a comparable one by Judge Alfred Gitelson for Los Angeles, as "totally unrealistic."

To this moment, the Supreme Court has methodically cut down efforts to delay desegregation. It has ordered full speed ahead in 30 Mississippi districts, 14 additional Southern districts, in Oklahoma City and, last Monday, in Memphis.

However Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, in the Memphis case, said that at some point the court should stop and resolve such basic problems as busing, zoning and whether the Constitution requires a particular racial balance in schools.

However, the technical posture of the Charlotte case is such that a high court hearing now is extremely unlikely.

But by spring it could become the vehicle for the court's next big school pronouncement.

At the moment, the question is: do the buses roll?

McMillan notes that 23,000 children in the district already are bused to and from school, at a cost of about $40 a year per pupil. Transportating an additional 10,000 to elementary schools, he estimates, would add less than 1 per cent to the local cost of operating the schools.

School officials speak in more expensive terms, estimating an initial cost of $3.8 million, including the purchase of 525 buses, and at least $500,000 a year hereafter.

The motion of the NAACP Legal Defense and Eduaction Fund before the court is to put the busing plan in the works now. It was suspended by the appeals court March 5.

"Unless district courts are upheld on appeal, and not undermined, in circumstances like these," the Fund says, "there is little likelihood that the rights announced in Brown can ever be more than an unrealized ideal bearing little relation to the life and education of the black child in America."

The Supreme Court, in the 1954 Brown decision, pronnounced for the first time the doctrine that racially separate public schools are unconstitutional.

Finch, in an interview recently with Metremedia Radio News, said: "To haul young children for an hour or more-across long distances-means they can't get any tutoring after school, the parents have great difficulty getting to the teacher to talk about their children.

"They the pupils can't take part in athletic events or dramatic events or extracurricular events-and it's not good educational policy. So that I feel very strongly that those decisions are moving in the wrong direction."

Attorneys for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg board are expected to file their views with the high court soon.

The desegregation plan, produced with the aid of a court-appointed consultant, pairs 10 inner city and predominantly Negro schools with 24 outlying white schools. Negro children in grades 1-4 would be bused to the white schools and white children in grades 5-6 would be bused to black schools.

Bus routes between schools average 15 miles in length requiring an estimated travel time of about 70 minutes each way.

Attendance zones for junior and senior high schools would be modified. The changes in elementary schools would have been implemented by April 1, for high schools by May 4.

The aim is a racial mix of about 71 per cent white pupils and 29 per cent black pupils in each of the 107 public schools in the district. Approximately 83,000 students are enrolled in the system.

Complicating the situation is a 1969 North Carolina antibusing law that the civil rights lawyers argue was passed to prevent greater desegregation.

McMillan concluded the statute "should not hamper the board in its future actions." For, he said, the law specifically authorizes busing for "any transfer necessitated by over-crowded conditions or other circumstances which in sole discretion of the school board require reassignment."

And said McMillan: "The board has the power to use school buses for all legitimate school purposes. Buses for many years were used to operate segregated schools.

"There is no reason except emotion-and I confess to having felt my own share of emotion on this subject in all the years before I studied the facts - why school buses cannot be used by the board to provide the flexibility and economy necessary to desegregate the schools."

Senate Bans Chamber Visits

SACRAMENTO (AP) - The State Senate's tomato-red, Victorian style chamber has been pronounced off - limits to non-legislative users, including YMCA Model Legislators and other youth groups.

The Senate Rules Committee said vandalism and costs caused the decision. A similar ruling was made by the Assembly Rules Committee in regard to outside use of its larger, more-frequently-used chamber.

A Senate aide said the decision would also eliminate the cost of posting several sergeants-at-arms in the chamber during weekend meetings.

At the most recent YMCA Model Legislature, Gov. Reagan was asked by the youthful delegates to reverse the Assembly's ban. He replied he could not interfere in a legislative matter but would assure the availability of other state government meeting space for them.

He's Disenchanted

LOS ANGELES (AP) - After the Soviet oceanographic ship Orojhb docked briefly for provisions, a short, blond American struck up a conversation with crewmen and accepted their invitation for lunch.

Aboard ship, he flashed a passport and demanded that Orojhb take him to asylum in the Soviet Union. The response was quick "nyet."

The skipper, Alexander Bolshakov, ordered William E. Rogers, 31, hustled ashore, where local and federal authorities took reports.

"He said nobody would help him go to school," said Harbor Patrol Sgt. Herman McMahon. "He said he was disenchanted with this country."

Authorities found no reason to hold him and Rogers was released in a few minutes.

Stanley Myron Handelman of NBC-TV's "Dean Martin Presents the Golddiggers" says he once worked in the Catskills as an athletic director. "I organized rest periods and sitting-around-the pool tournaments."

Trainee Pay Cut Starts Rebellion

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Labor Department is facing a minor rebellion among some Neighborhood Youth Corps directors who object to a 25 per cent cut in money job trainees can earn.

"Neighborhood Youth Corps project directors across the country are resisting implementing new program guidelines recently issued by the Department of Labor on grounds they are unfair to the enrollees and provide ineffective service," says the National Association for Community Development, a private, nonprofit antipoverty agency.

Although saying most of the directors have accepted the guidelines, which reduce the hours a trainee may work in each week, the Labor Department acknowledges some discontent.

In fact, a department spokesman said, "The Manpower Administration is currently weighing and studying this one aspect to see what can be done in the face of the general, negative reaction to this cut in pay."

Actually, the spokesman added, the $160.4 million allocated for some 132,000 trainees this year is up about $2 million over last year and another $148 million has been set aside for a special summer program for 368,000 youths, about the same for last year.

The new guidelines, the department indicated, were issued to make better use of the money. For instance, although youngsters in the program now earning $38 a week for 32 hours of work will earn only $28.50 for 16 hours, more money will be spent on job training, general education and counseling.

But the directors reportedly fear the reduction in earnings in the regular program will make it more difficult to recruit teenagers for the program, aimed at helping 16 and 17-year-olds learn jobs so they can stay in school.

The association, which siad it is affiliated with the Neighborhood Youth Corps directors, stated the group had unsuccessfully petitioned Labor Secretary Georg P. Shultz for a hearing on the guidelines.

The department spokesman said seminars have been held to explain the new guidelines to regional officials in Boston, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Dallas, San Francisco and Atlanta and a New York seminar is scheduled next week.

A further decision will be considered after the seminars are completed, in light of the objections to the reduction in working hours and income for trainees, the spokesman said.

No Coal Today

HOLMES CHAPEL, England (AP) - May Clarke pnned a note on her front door to the coal man Wednesday. It read: "no coal today."

Then she left home.

Soon afterward a truck missed a turn, crashed into her front door and dumped 14 tons of coal up to 16 feet deep on her doorstep.

The truck driver was unhurt.

High Altitude Gardening

By Ronald H. Gustafson
Washoe County Extension Horticulturist

There is no better time than now to plan a garden for the coming year. The new 1970 catalogues have been mailed and are in the hands of you gardeners now. Looking over the impressive pages of some of the catalogues I start thinking of my own garden and what materials I will need and wish to encourage you to start thinking and planning now. Plan – order early, and consider starting some of the seeds indoors to lengthen the life of your annuals; we'll talk about this later. Let's look at some of the new plants.

ANNUALS – Marigolds head the list this year and they are the beginners "certain–success" plant. The experienced gardner finds a stand–by for a long season of trouble free bloom.

"Bolero" is a 1970 All American Selection. The plant blooms quickly from seed and forms a 12–inch plant covered with 1 1/2 – 2 1/4 inch double flowers in mahogany red and gold. A real petite marigold can be found in "Redcoat." This one has two inch double flowers of rich mahogany red on 8 inch plants – perfect for edging.

"Madame Butterfly" is a 1970 All American selection in the Snapdragon group. The familiar flower form is changed to resemble an Azalea. The plants include all the usual snapdragon color with the plants reaching two feet high.

"Hot Buttons" is the latest addition to the Zinnia's popular button series. A compact 12 inch plant produces an abundance of double 1 1/2 inch flowers in hot pink with stems long enough to cut.

Another Zinnia variety includes "Lipstick." This belongs to the Zenith class that includes five previous All American winners. This one has cherry–crimson flowers up to 6 inches across with ruffled and quilted petals for a wonderful mixture of all the bright Zinnia colors grow "Fireworks" a giant cactus–flowered type.

Petunias can very easily claim the role of the most widely grown annual. They are easily grown in full sun and bloom until hard frost. Start seeds indoors and set plants out after frost damage is past.

Four new petunias include "Pink Snow," a soft pleasant pink grandiflora; "El Toro" in the same class but a bright red; and "Flamboyant" a flamingo–pink with a creamy throat, also a grandiflora; and "Coral Bells" a multiflora – a particularly weather tolerant variety.

Wall Street Faces Money Shortage

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) – Some time during the year, as early as this spring perhaps, investors will be telling their Wall Street brokerage houses a thing or two, and the brokers are going to have to take it in public.

It could be embarrassing. These are the people, you know, who have been telling the world all about other companies. But seldom have they solicited other opinions on how to manage their own affairs.

For many years they operated as partnerships, and partners might fight among each other but they keep their mutual secrets, it being in the interest of their common goals, which partnership implies.

Now they need money – very badly. And so, Homburg in hand, they will be coming to the public in search of it. They will be, in the language of their business, going public. This is the year of the Wall Street cotillion; at least 12 firms are expected to "come out" public capital.

When a company goes public it offers it shares to outsiders. It invites those outsiders to put up their money, and with any investment there always comes an opinion, unsolicited or not.

For example, there is a thing called the price–earnings ratio.

A young, aggressive company in a growing industry might have a ratio as high as 60 or more, because people believe its future is good. IBM, Polariod, Xerox, and Control Data have had them.

An older company with a stodgy image won't do nearly as well. General Motors, which is the world's mightiest corporation, has a P–E of only 11.

What kind of a P–E will investors put on the brokerage houses that now intend to go public?

Last year, when there was widespread speculation as to what sort of an opinion the public would have, some analysts talked about P–E ratios of 20 or 30 to 1. That was last year.

Since then brokerage firms have reported their profits – or more correctly in some cases – their losses.

Some brokers, in fact, might just as well forget any ideas of going public for the moment. In order to sell shares you have to give the public information.

Wife With Broken Arm A Problem For Hubby

By NORM GOLDSTEIN

NEW YORK (AP) – Mister, when's the last time you put on a pair of panty hose?

I do it every day now.

You see, the good wife broke an arm last week in a not–so–good fall while ice skating.

That means that among the womanly chores she cannot do for the next four–to–six weeks, until the cast comes off, is cook anything that doesn't come out of a can and thank goodness for electric can openers; wash her back, cut her steak – and put on her panty hose.

All these tasks now fall to me, who never was quite Mr. Manual Dexterity.

I never realized before, thankfully, what an ordeal it is simply to be a woman.

But now, I begin my day a bit earlier, leaving time after washing and dressing myself, to help her present herself to a morning world. For a man who has difficulty finding his face to shave every a.m., helping a woman get into those tights at 7:30 a.m. is indeed a problem.

In all fairness, however, I am getting the knack of it and by healing time, I may be the fastest male panty–hose–dresser on the West Side.

In addition, I have finally learned – necessity not only mothers invention, but education as well – how to light the oven. For that matter, where it is. To my unending surprise, it is really quite simple. And, wonder of wonders, I can now make a cup of real coffee. Quite good, if I say so myself. Actually, we eat out a lot now.

Yet, I long for that great cast–off day as I'm sure my starving wife does when I can return to my lazy ways and dry Martinis.

There is however, one advantage I may truly miss after cast–off. You see, right now she can't sign checks either.

Just Opening Mail Can Be Revelation

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) - Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Mothers between the ages of 16 and 35 are least likely to give birth to abnormal babies. The average is about one in a hundred. The figures are two in a hundred for mothers under 16 or over 35.

One river that appears to be winning the battle against pollution is London's waterway, the Thames. Half a century ago it had become so foul no fish were left in it. But within the last year, thanks to purification measures, some 42 kinds of fish have been caught in the Thames.

Our own campaign to keep from being choked by our own debris isn't going too well. Americans now toss away 800 million pounds of junk and trash every day, and the annual cost of getting rid of it has now risen to half-billion dollars.

Worst pun of the week: "Doctors say that cheerful people resist disease better than glum people. In other words, it's the surly bird that catches the germ."

Quotable notables: "If a man's curve of efficiency is ascending at 45, and keeps on ascending just after that period, it may well move upward for his whole life; but if there is a turn downward at 45, he will never recover." - Nichols Murray Butler.

Worth remembering: "When a man gets too old to set a bad example, he starts giving good advice."

Shooting stars that flash across the sky at night may startle you with their brilliance, but most of these flaming visitors from space are small-often no larger than a pebble or a grain of sand.

Foklore: if two friends wash their hands in a basin at the same time and then dry their hands simultaneously on the same towel, their friendship will soon dwindle. Fruit trees will bear better if you drive a peg or nail into them. Bad luck will follow if you count the number of cars in a funeral procession. Long hair on the arms is a sign you'll be rich some day.

It was Thomas A. Kempis who observed, "A humble knowledge of oneself is a surer road to God than a deep searching of the sciences."

Serve Beef For Easter Dinner

EASTER SPECIAL -- A sirloin beef roast flavored with a spiced mixture of ground veal and beef suet can be extra special for dinner on Easter Sunday. Use juices from the roast to make a tasty mushroom gravy.

The Easter Bunny has hidden a surprise inside this elegant beef pot roast. Slice into the beef and you'll find it's filled with polka dots. The wonderful texture and flavor is created by the insertion of veal forcemeat. This very special touch takes a bit of time but it is well worth the effort for Easter's festive dinner. Select a four or five pound beef sirloin butt or rolled rump roast. Both have excellent beef flavor, little waste and are nicely shaped, too.

To flavor the beef throughout, a spiced mixture of ground veal and beef suet is forced into slits cut into the roast. After browning, the beef is covered with strips of bacon and simmered to juicy perfection in broth and wine. The result is the best tasting, most unusual company pot roast around. And to make use of the good tasting pan juices, simply thicken and add fresh mushrooms. Bright Easter Eggs and tiny spring flowers make an appropriate garnish for the handsome beef platter.

Spring party plans just naturally center around versatile beef roasts. Less tender cuts respond beautifully to moist heat cooking and require little or no last minute attention.

BEEF POT ROAST
FOR EASTER

4 pounds rolled California beef sirlion butt
Veal Forcemeat
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons oil or drippings
4 thick slices bacon
1 (10 1/2-pounce) can beef broth
1 cup red table wine
4 mushrooms, sliced
1 tablespoon butter

Make slits in beef with long thin sharp knife and push forcemeat into them. Combine 2 tablespoons flour with salt and pepper. Rub into beef. Sear on all sides in hot oil or drippings in Dutch oven. Lay bacon strips over top of beef. Add broth and wine. Cover closely and simmer until tender, about 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Discard bacon. Remove beef and keep warm. Skim fat from cooking liquid. Add mushrooms to remaining liquid. Stir in butter kneaded with remaining 1 tablespoon flour. Simmer 5 minutes. Serve with beef. Makes 8 servings.

VEAL FORCEMEAT: Grind 1/2 pound veal and one ounce beef suet together twice, using fine blade of food chopper. Mix with 1/2 teaspoon onion salt, and dash each of pepper, cloves and nutmeg. Blend in one egg white.

What Are Job Prospects Today?

"A confusing year – one of muddy waters." That seems to sum up the current job prospect situation for this June's college graduates.

A survey of universities and colleges from coast to coast during March revealed a situation ranging from "extremely bleak to good."

Generally, college placement officials feel that the job market is down for this year's graduates, but it is too early to begin hanging crepe. One placement director classified the situation as one of general softness – "not at all unlike walking on spring ice." Any change in the country's economy could greatly change the picture by the time the sheepskins are passed out in June.

On – campus recruiting is down somewhat this year with most colleges reporting some cancellations for economic reasons. Often companies are making only one campus visit, instead of two or three as in past years. Other companies have cut back on their interviewing, but have fewer offers to make.

This year it's definitely an employer's market, according to survey findings. Employers are being much more selective this year, their needs having been cut by the current economic situation. While the past few years have seen business and industry going so far as to hoard manpower, today they are looking for quality rather than quantity. Many companies are adopting a "wait and see" attitude, holding off on job offers until later in the spring when the economic picture may be more in focus.

Hardest hit of the 1970 graduates will probably be engineers. Government cutbacks in defense and aerospace contracts have caused heavy layoffs in some areas of the country, thereby releasing experienced men who get preference over new grads. New fields, such as pollution control, might take up some of the slack, however.

The demand is still good for chemical and industrial engineers in most areas.

The grad with the Ph.D. will also be finding things rough this year in all fields. Government cutbacks in research and budgetary freezes at colleges and universities for teaching Ph.D.'s have turned many to industry, and the jobs are just not there. With the exception of the Masters in Business Administration, it can generally be said that the higher the degree, the greater will be the difficulty in securing a job.

In a survey by the Family Economics Bureau five years ago many placement officials felt a large number of graduates going on to advanced degrees would be wasting both time and money. There is beginning to be evidence that this prophecy is coming true.

Most areas of the country report that the teaching shortage is over, particularly in the social sciences and at the elementary level. Teaching jobs at all levels are still available, but only if the grad is willing to go where the jobs are – mainly in the rural areas. No longer will a teacher find it easy to get a job wherever he wants.

Without exception, the Family Economics Bureau found the brightest spot on the job horizon to be in accounting. Mathematicians, especially those computer – oriented, are finding many doors open. In some areas, in an attempt to bolster lagging sales, marketing and sales jobs are plentiful.

For the liberal arts graduate, positions available will depend on the amount of time he has devoted to a specialty. The student who has been majoring in "indecision" will find the going rough.

The federal government has slashed its needs, but reports show more openings with state and local governments than in previous years.

Paradoxically, reports indicate that salaries for new grads continue to climb, although the rise doesn't seem to be quite as steep this year as last. The exceptional student is getting offers considerably above last year.

Returning veterans will definitely have the edge on June graduates in the race for available jobs. With service behind them, their greater maturity and earlier availability for work, they will be given preference.

In summing up, this year students will have to look for a job – the jobs won't come to them. The good students will get the offers first, while the marginal students will have to get busy and follow up all possible job leads. They will have to be prepared to relocate and go where the jobs are. Very few graduates who really want to work will be without jobs. But practically no one will have as many choices as grads of the past few years.

ENDURANCE HIKER

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Chuck Betcher, 23, a Colorado college student from Aspen, is only the fourth person on record to hike along the Continental Divide in Colorado from the Wyoming to the New Mexico boundary.

Friendly little Tahoe National Bank announces the nation's first totally free checking account.

Free of charges. Free of minimums. Free for the asking.

Take a friendly little bank. Give it bright new management and a 300-million-dollar partner. And see what happens.

Free checking. In fact, the only truly free checking in the nation.

Starting today, every personal checking account at Tahoe National Bank gets the first fifteen checks each month absolutely free.

No service charges. No minimum balances. No per-check charges. Just use up to fifteen Tahoe National checks each month absolutely free.

We even have a special plan for people who write large numbers of personal checks. Very simple. Keep a $100 balance and you have unlimited free checking.

To get your free checking account, just stop in at Tahoe National in the Crescent V Shopping Center or our Tahoe Valley office.

And you'll never have to pay to write a check again.

CHATAUX MUSIC - Clyde Amsler, with Joe Rossi on the accordian and George Gold on the drums, is nightly displaying versatile talents for guests at the Chataux. Amsler moves from clarinet to soprano, alto and tenor sax and finally to harmonica to lead the trio in a full scope of interesting music. The trio's music includes standard tunes, latin numbers, waltzes, dixieland, jazz, ballads and the best of rock.

Clyde Amsler Group Entertains At Chataux

INCLINE VILLAGE - The Clyde Amsler Trio, a versatile group that plays anything from waltzes to rock, is now appearing at the popular Chataux here.

The trio consists of Clyde, who plays clarinet, soprano sax, alto, tenor and harmonica; Joe Rossi, who plays accordian, and George Gold on drums. It has won wide acclaim for its versatility.

The group, in fact, plays anything from jazz to Latin numbers, from ballads to Dixieland.

Clyde Amsler has done orchestrating for and-or with groups like Paul Chotet and his Kit Kat Klub Revue; the Amsler Brothers Dixieland Orchestra, Slats Randall (remember "Skirts?"), Little Joe Hart, and Spike Jones TV shows of 1957 and 1958, and many others.

The group plays at the Chautaux Wednesday through Sunday, starting at 7 p.m.

The popular club, which is open to the public, serves dinner nightly, except Mondays and Tuesdays.

Different View

It was easy to tell the experienced from the novices recently when NBC-TV's "Julia" series went on location to an amusement park. The youngsters who were working as extras were heard to remark, "This work is more like fun." But 7-year-old Michael Link, a star of the series and tired from a long day of being in every scene, said, "This fun is the hardest work I ever had."

Belafonte, Horne Share TV Hour

On Sunday, March 22 the ABC Television Network will present an hour of exciting musical entertainment, "Harry and Lena," starring Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne.

The program brings these two personal friends and world-famed singers together on television for the first time. The only other time they have performed together was last August in a unanimously acclaimed Las Vegas nightclub act.

The music on the special is semi-autobiographical in structure. Though the songs don't specifically refer to Harry and Lena, they do take the audience into the lives of the performers. In Belafonte's words, "We just want to share some thoughts and feelings with all of you. . ."

At the start Lena and Harry ask the audience to "Walk a Mile in My Shoes," setting the tone for the program. Harry sings about "My Old Man," while Lena tells the things she remembers "In My Life," and how no matter what it is you're looking for, "It's Always Somewhere Else."

As they continue this musical history, Harry informs viewers about what it's like "If You Ever Lived in a Ghetto," and Lena sings about having a "Brown Baby." With some small children Harry reminisces about the friends "Down on the Corner" and places where "Subways" take a kid (never to the country).

Together Harry and Lena tell a "Love Story," a half-mocking but very loving song about love and marriage. "The First Time" is a duet about two people who fall in love and kiss for the first time. The third duet is "Don't It Make You Want to Go Home," an appropriate ending for people who have traveled as far and wide as Harry and Lena.

Lena also sings "I Want to Be Happy," a song with which she has been associated for many years. Harry Sings "Abraham, Martin and John."

"Harry and Lena" is sponsored by Faberge, Inc. through its agencies, Nadler & Larimer, Inc., Lennen-Newell, Inc. and Mathison, Ress, Inc.

Chiz Schultz, whose credits include "The Danny Thomas Hour" and the first Belafonte television special, "Three for Tonight," is the producer and Belafonte is the executive producer for Belafonte Enterprises. Kirk Browning is the director and the music is under the supervision of Alfred Brown.

Learning To Ride

Joseph Campanella, a star of NBC-TV's "The Bold Ones," is learning to ride a bike along with his four sons. Joe didn't have a bike as a boy growing up in New York. His house in Toluca Lake is also the first he has ever lived in.

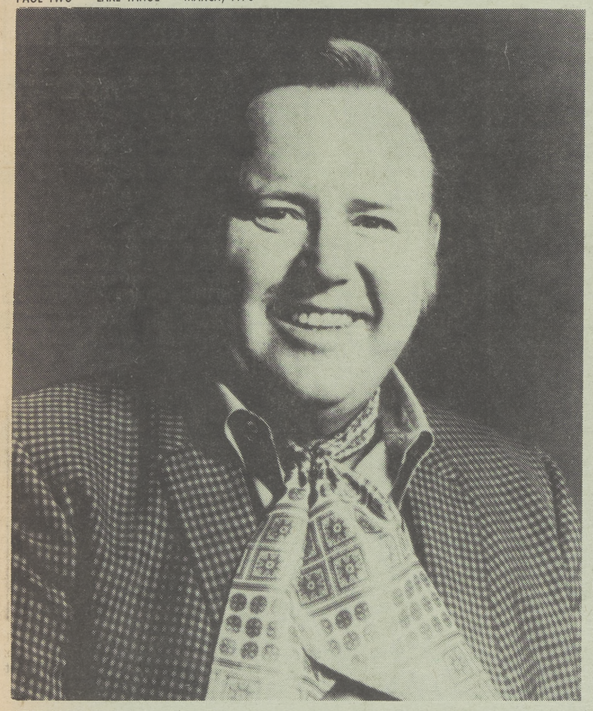
Reichardt Opens 1970 Season At Harrah's



KEYBOARD GENIUS - Big Tiny Little and his driving style of piano artistry is currently headlining in the Juniper Lounge of the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel. A magnificent showman, Little has consistantly been a favorite guest of television variety shows and has received top reviews where ever he has appeared. For instance, Variety Magazine - the entertainment business bible - calls Little "a master at every phase of keyboard presentation." From jazz to honky - tonk, Little is the most versatile in the business.

Cavanaugh Continues Nightly In Pine Cone

Page Cavanaugh, one of most respected names in the annals of jazz piano, continues to delight audiences nightly in the Pine Cone Lounge of the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel.

Cavanaugh's delivery runs the gamut from modern pop tunes to more intriguing classics - all done in the jazz genius' driving style.

One of the busiest piano artists in the business, Cavanaugh recently worked at the Sahara and Tropicana hotels in Las Vegas, before arriving at the lake for a two week stint.

Audiences loved him and the swingers found the Pine Cone quickly becomming the gathering place on the South Shore during the hours the trio is in session. In short, he's still there.

And sometimes there are special treats too.

Like the other evening when Jack Eglash, prominent orchestra leader and flute player, sat in for a few tunes after conducting for Buddy Hackett and Teresa Graves in the High Sierra Theatre.

But guests or not, Cavanaugh swings and so does the room.

Tony Curtis To Star In '71 Series

Tony Curtis, in his first regular role in a television series, will co-star with British star Roger Moore in "The Friendly Persuaders," a one-hour dramatic adventure series with a comedy flavor, on the ABC Television Network, it was announced today by Martin Starger, Vice President in charge of Programming for the network.

The series is scheduled for telecast in 1971 and is to be filmed on location at various places throughout the world by Associated Television Corporation, Ltd. It chronicles the exploits of two wealthy, highly volatile men who, despite their differences, share an unending spirit of adventure and an unerring sense of what is just.

Roger Moore, who created the role of "The Saint," for many years a popular television series, portrays Brett Sinclair, a sophisticated, titled Englishman with a highly developed sense of "what's cool." Curtis, as his American partner, is the complete opposite - nouveau riche, he is impulsive and his anger is explosive.

"The accent is on humor, excitement and adventure," Mr. Starger said. "We are particularly enthusiastic because of the prominence of both stars involved."

"Mr. Moore has long been a popular television star and the fact that Mr. Curtis is making his series debut on ABC is especially important to the network. We are also indebted to Sir Lew Grade (deputy chairman and chief executive, Associated Television Corporation, Ltd.,) for putting together the elements of this most promising new series."

Curtis, who most recently completed the filming in Turkey of "Suppose They Gave a War But Nobody Came," has made more than 50 motion pictures in a 20-year career. Among his films are "The Boston Strangler," "Trapeze," "Spartacus," "The Vikings," "Some Like It Hot," "Sex and the Single Girl,"

GRADE SCHOOL DROPOUTS - The hilarious musical-comedy team known as "Harper Valley PTA," is currently appearing in the Juniper Lounge of the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel. The zany trio manages to surprise the audience with excellent musical delivery, while maintaining a running dialogue of hilarious nonsense. Also in the Juniper Lounge are Big Tiny Little, the master of jazz and honky-tonk piano, and the versatile Buckley & Collins duo.

Promises Near End Of Stint In Sahara's Juniper Lounge

The Promises are three blondes from Ohio who have come a long way from Sid's Tavern in Sandusky to headlining in the Juniper Lounge of the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel. They close in a few days but they'll be back soon.

Together for four years, the group has had its share of small clubs near the hometown of Cleveland, but the past two years have found them traveling more and in demand at top niteries throughout the west.

While their story starts in Cleveland, the more interesting chapters were written in Las Vegas.

Mona Garcia, Cheri Brewer and Sandi Mooney arrived in Las Vegas in 1968 after an extensive road trip which had seen them in Alaska to the north and the Bahamas to the south. They were working enough, but the places weren't the greatest and the travel was difficult.

When they arrived at the Sahara in Las Vegas, the three began in an early evening spot, but ever fresh arrangements and never-ending-rehearsals soon payed off and the girls were signed to a long-term contract. And they were in the star time slot.

Now with the security of a contract and the opportunity to receive guidance from the top people in the entertainment business, The Promises have shown more promise than ever.

Polished delivery, sparkling choreography and excellent costuming (just to use a few adjectives) have created one of the most exciting acts to come along in years.

"Big deal," commented Mona following the above observation, "we still need a record or major television appearance to really make things happen."

And while this may be true, if hard work, dedication and pure talent can provide the springboard . . . then The Promises are the best bet to come along in years.

Blood, Sweat & Tears On Top

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

How do you follow an act like that?

That's a question asked very often at rock shows, as for example, when Ike and Tina Turner are leaving the stage.

But in the case of Blood, Sweat and Tears, the question is how to follow their own gigantically successful act.

Blood, Sweat and Tears has been nominated for 10 Grammy Awards, and no person or group ever has been nominated for that many before.

The second album, "Blood, Sweat and Tears," is a gold record and three of the singles from it are gold singles.

Now the group is working on a third album, to come out this spring, and everybody is waiting to compare quality of the new one with the previous and to see whether this one sells as well.

Lead singer David Clayton-Thomas, who has a build like a lumberjack, says, "We released that album and the concept of hit singles wasn't really occurring to us. But Columbia released 'You've Made Me So Very Happy' and it became gold. Then 'Spinning Wheel' started to get played and they released that. There was a lot of wavering about whether we should release another one. You just don't get three gold records off a gold album; it would set a precedent if we did. The album had sold 1,700,000 when we released 'And When I Die,' It did set a precedent.

"It proves there are two different markets - for singles and albums. Some people in the business have a funny feeling toward what we did, pushing our product but the idea is to reach as many people as you can. So if a kid hears a record and wants to buy it and doesn't have enough money for an LP, why shouldn't we supply him with a single?"

Trumpeter Lew Soloff thinks the next album will be even better. "We've been together for 13 months longer now; it means a big improvement in the band. Then we were experimenting. On the previous album we sometimes put jazz in places where changes shouldn't have been made. Now we're more selective in where to have jazz spots."

Clayton-Thomas says, "We're not after perfection this time. The last album had an air of perfection to it. A lot of people were disappointed in hearing it after they heard us in concert. We sacrificed the natural fire of the band by doing 90 takes to get a flawless cut. This time we're trying for the best combination of fire and excitement and technical perfection we can get, with the emphasis on fire and excitement.

DAVID CLAYTON-THOMAS

Since the success of the nine-man Blood, Sweat and Tears, many large groups have appeared. Clayton-Thomas is glad to see the ones that are good, "because I want to see an improvement in the literacy of rock music." But he knows that many of them won't have what Blood, Sweat and Tears does - some musicians trained in classical music and some trained in jazz.

"It's very hard to persuade a disciplined musician, who can make good money in recording studios, to take on the pace and uncertainty of the rock 'n' roll world. This band bounced from one end of the country to the other. We got paid sometimes; sometimes we didn't. We had a lot of blood drawn on the way up by people we did business with. At the cheap level in the entertainment business there are a whole lot of bloodsuckers.

"One of the things about a rock 'n' roll band is you start out less than poor. And it's not a safe, protected world."

Durante Brings New Show To Nugget Stage In Sparks

SPARKS - One of the favorite times around John Ascuaga's Nugget in Sparks, Nevada, is when Jimmy Durante and the troupe is on the scene. Durante brings his show to the Circus Room for the first two weeks of April marking the beginning of another full season of nightly shows. Actual show dates are April 2 through 15.

Jimmy Durante is known to one and all for many things; his Schnoz, his mis-pronounciation of words and his ability to completely forget his best friend's name at the drop of a hat.

VETERAN SHOWMAN - Jimmy Durante, one of the greatest names in the entertainment field, brings and all new show to John Ascuaga's Nugget in Sparks April 2. He will appear in the Circus Room nightly through April 15.

Durante was once at a rehearsal with Russian ballet star Rudolph Nureyev, and a friend quipped, "when the two of them spoke English, it sounded like a new language."

Recently Jimmy wrote; "After more than 55 years in show business, I got a lot to look back on, and you know, no matter how far back a person goes in his work, he should always remember his beginnings.

"Also, you meet a lotta people of the way up the ladder. It's important because many times ya meet the same guys on your way down. It don't hurt to be nice to everyone."

Show times for the Jimmy Durante show with the Pearce Sisters are 8 p.m. for the dinner show and 11:30 for the cocktail show. There will be a third show on Saturday night 1:45 a.m.

Archie Gang Coming Back

It's election time again at Riverdale High. And Archie, Jughead, Betty, Veronica, Big Moose, Sabrina the teenage witch and the rest of the perennially youthful caracters from the "Archie" comic strip are immersed in the whirling world of politics on "The Archie Sugar, Sugar, Jingle, Jangle Show," animated special to be rebroadcast Sunday, March 22 in color on the CBS Television Network.

The plot revolves around a hotly contested school election that has Riverdale High in an uproar.

Three generations of comic strip readers have enjoyed the daily adventures and misadventures of Archie and his gang who were created by John Goldwater and are currently syndicated in approximately 600 newspapers. In addition, the comic book circulation is estimated at 100 million, and the regular weekly "Archie" series on the CBS Television Network is the number one rated Saturday daytime program.

James Drury and Dan Blocker, respective stars of NBC – TV's "The Virginian" and "Bonanza" series, appeared together once in a half-hour pilot of the Virginian with Drury in the title role and Blocker portraying Trampas. "It didn't sell," Drury recalls, "and I guess it is just as well since Dan and I have been on the air for quite a long run without each other!"

Dutch Recordings Climbing Charts

By RANDALL COLLIER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - It's a small brigade, but the Dutch appear to be staging an invasion here - at least in the field of music - and the Americans love it.

First it was the Shocking Blue and their hit rock song "Venus," and now there's another. This group is called the Tee Set and it's got a song called "Ma Belle Amie" which is making a climb on America's record charts.

"Venus" went from No. 2 to No. 1 on the chart of best-selling singles on Jan. 31, stayed at No. 1 for three weeks and on the Feb. 21 chart declined to No. 3. "Ma Belle Amie" went from No. 23 to No. 14 on Feb. 21 and was still climbing.

"When we first made 'MaBelle Amie' we figured it would do well at home and even had a good chance in other European countries, but we thought that was as far as it would go," said handsome 22-year-old lead singer Peter Teteroo in an interview.

He's in New York to talk over plans for an album which should hit the record stands in the U.S. sometime in March. He also wants to plug "Ma Belle Amie" while on this side of the ocean.

Handling the song here is Jerry Ross, a New York producer who happened to be in Germany last year and just by chance heard both "Venus" and the Tee Set's song. He headed for Amsterdam when he learned the songs were available and purchased the master tapes.

"We've been together for four years," said Tetteroo, "and we've done fine in Europe but the feeling, at least in Holland, is that for a record to be good, it has to be done by either an American or an Englishman. That's why we sing in English.

"To have the success we are having now is kind of like revenge. For a long time Dutch groups have had to take a back seat to the British and American groups but now with the Shocking Blue and ourselves, we are getting some of the attention."

Tetteroo feels the attention the young Dutchmen are receiving now is good not only for the rock groups, but for the Netherlands too. "America can see that we are just as mod as the Americans - in fact it's a different kind of modness.

"For instance, I don't think we have the dirty-looking hippie type. I think our mod dress is clean looking.

"I think the Americans thought we would be walking around in wooden shoes," he said as he showed off his knee-length, bright red boots.

Tetteroo and another member of the group, Hans van Eijck write many of the songs the Tee Set Record. "We're really lucky to have Hans. He's written for the German Rattles and the British Spencer Davis Group. He and I did 'Ma Belle Amie."

Tetteroo realizes that rock groups come and go and that success is sometimes limited, but he says, "We will make the most of it. The money's important but it's not everything. More than anything - we're proud. We hope they're proud of us at home."

Bacharach Opens 1970 Season At Harrah's

Brilliant young composer Burt Bacharach makes his debut, and his first nightclub appearance anywhere, headlining Harrah's Tahoe March 20.

The composer of "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head," "Alfie" and a string of other popular songs will perform in concert on the South Shore Room stage for eight days, March 20-21 and March 24-30.

Pat Paulsen and the Fathers will appear at Harrah's Tahoe for two days only, March 22-23, along with the Brian Farnon Orchestra.

Bacharach, a hit maker of the new breed of contemporary composers, has attained a reputation as one of the foremost composers of today.

He has succeeded in a variety of musical endeavors - musical comedy, feature films, Broadway and the record charts.

"Raindrops" and the score from the motion picture "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," composed by Bacharach, have been nominated for Academy Awards this year.

Bacharach has had five nominations in all, which also include "What's New, Pussycat?" "Alfie" and "The Look of Love."

The talented composer also collaborated with lyricist Hal David on the score for the Broadway musical hit "Promises, Promises."

Other Bacharach creations include "Wives and Lovers," "Walk on By," "What the World Needs Now is Love" and "Do You Know The Way to San Jose?"

The majority of these songs were first sung by Dionne Warwick whose subsequent success proved that Bacharach had "star maker" qualities as well when he launched his career.

Bacharach, who studied serious music under such great composers as Darius Milhaud and Henry Colwell, is recognized as one of the most perceptive and talented composers to emerge in the American music scene in years.

In addition to his many music and motion picture successes, Bacharach has appeared on television specials starring Herb Alpert and Jose Feliciano.

He has hosted TV's "Kraft Music Hall" and co-hosted "The Hollywood Palace" with his wife, Angie Dickinson.

Bacharach was personal conductor and arranger for Marlene Dietrich's European tour.

Says Miss Dietrich, "My respect and love for the musician Burt Bacharach is matched by my love and respect for the man."

Anthony Newley, famous in his own right as an actor - composer - writer and recent headliner at Harrah's Reno and Tahoe, observes: "Burt has revolutionized the world of commercial music in the most unlikely way - he has replaced noise with music."

The Establishments, a top-talented song - choreographic act five young men and five young ladies, will bolster both Bacharach's and Paulsen's shows during the 10-night schedule.

As a group the Establishment is completely unique. The combination - a singing act that dances and a dancing act that sings, made for one swinging, singing, talented group.

Within the initial 12 months of their existence they accumulated a list of extraordinary credits.

In addition to their engagements at Caesar's Palace as well as 15 weeks on the Jonathan Winters Show, they have guest starred at Harrah's Reno and Tahoe and appeared with Andy Griffith as stars on his TV special.

NIGHTCLUB DEBUT - Composer Burt Bacharach opens full - time entertainment at Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room beginning March 20. Bacharach, making his nightclub debut, will perform eight days March 20-21 and March 24-30. Comedian Pat Paulsen will appear two days, March 22-23.

'Hamlet' Airs Over NBC

British theatre and television director Peter Wood will direct the two-hour "Hallmark Hall of Fame" production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" starring Richard Chamberlain, to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network during the 1970-71 season.

Wood's numberous London stage credits include "The Birthday Party," "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," "Five Finger Exercise" and the double bill of "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye." He directed "Hamlet" and "The Devils" for the Royal Shakespeare Company and "Mary Stuart" for the Old Vic Company as well as productions for the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, Stratford-on-Avon, and the Stratford (Ontario) Shakespeare Festival. In New York, he directed "Poor Richard" and the "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye" twosome. Mr. Wood is one of London's leading directors of television drama.

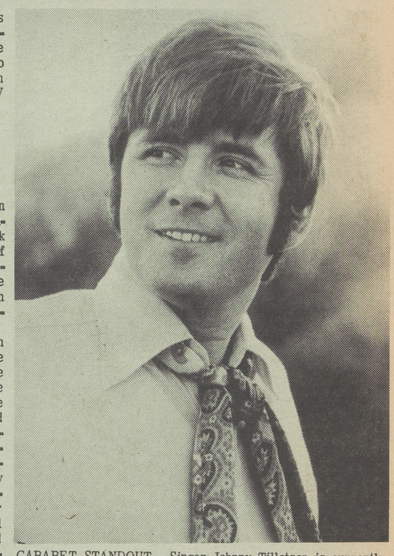
Another Year For Lucy

"Here's Lucy," starring Lucille Ball, begins production March 2 for the 1970-71 season, its third on the CBS Television Network.

Vincent Price is the special guest star of the season's first episode which went before the cameras and studio audience on March 5, at Paramount Gower studios. Art Linkletter, Sammy Davis Jr. and Wally Cox are signed for guest star roles in future episodes.

As was done last year, Miss Ball's production company will film several shows on location. Three episodes are now scheduled to be filmed in Hawaii during June. Miami, Florida is another of several locations also being considered.

Co-starring with Miss Ball are Gale Gordon, and her children, Lucie and Desi Arnaz Jr. Gary Morton is the executive producer. Cleo Smith is the producer.



CABARET STANDOUT - Singer Johnny Tillotson is currently in the second week of a three-week engagement as co-headliner with Fats Domino in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret. Both Tillotson and Domino will perform through April 1.

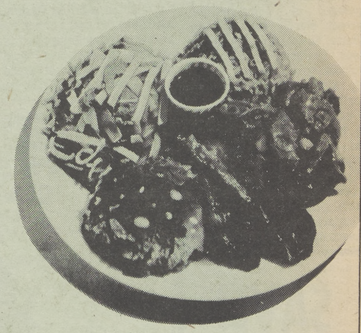
A San Francisco restaurateur has put into effect a highly original steak dinner idea. The customer selects his own portion of steak. His check is then figured at the rate per ounce of the portion he selects. In addition to the steak, the dinner includes luscious green salad, choice of dressing, Idaho baked potato with sour cream, butter, chives and bacon crumbs, french fried onion rings, relish bowl, and all the coffee you wish.

Chinese food in the Sierra Restaurant.
For people with a sweet and sour tooth.



Sometime or another, most of us get an urge for Chinese Food. Sweet and sour or otherwise. And it's usually at night. So the Sierra restaurant is serving authentic, steaming Chinese delicacies every night from 8:00 p.m. to 4:00 a.m. Meals fit for a mandarin. Satisfy that craving for something sweet and sour. Chicken. Pork. Spareribs. Or choose from many other tempting Chinese dishes. Please to be our guest. Please to be sweet to yourself.

BACK AGAIN - The eye-appealing Latin lovely, Roberta Darin, is appearing at Harvey's Resort Hotel through April 8.

Town Pipers Held Over At Castle

By popular demand, The Town Pipers are being held over at Kings Castle Hotel and Casino where they are appearing nightly, except Monday in the lounge from 8 p.m. until the wee small hours.

They have completely captivated their listeners with the fresh new approach they have to the most current "now sound" and songs to the most swinging interpretations of standards.

Gary Allen on alternating lead guitar, Frank McDonald on bass and Chris Lenthall, a young new drummer with a great future, are assets to the group.

Free hors d' oeuvres and hot wine are served after skiing, compliments of Kings Castle Hotel and Casino; from 4:30 until 7:30 p.m.

Unreal World

"Modeling is a whole unreal world – phoney as can be," says Elizabeth Allen, star of NBC–TV's new series, "Bracken's World." She says, "you're the mannequin and it's what you have on that's important."

POPULAR TRIO - Tony Austin & Company, three highly talented singers, musicians and comedy personalities, are currently appearing at Cal-Neva Lodge. The trio has gained a large following during the past few years while making frequent appearances in the Lake Tahoe area.

Roberta Darin Scheduled At Harvey's Through April 8

The petite and beautiful Latin Miss, Roberta Darin, presents all the current recording hits along with her favorite Bosso Nova rhythms at Harvey's Resort Hotel in the Theatre Lounge, through April 8.

Appearing with the Roberta Darin Show are the Coulter Twins, who provide a versatile package of entertainment, through March 23; Hawaiian Prince Kawohi and the Greenwood Brothers, round out a musical treat, through March 26; also Kirk Bates, through April 6.

Opening in the Theatre Lounge on March 24 are the popular and superb entertainers, The Esquires.

Being consistently eager to provide the best, Miss Roberta Darin goes out of her way to bring a new and exciting show to each succeeding engagement.

Comprised entirely of Spanish-American descent, each member of the Roberta Darin Show is an accomplished vocalist and musician. They set a staggering pace on Harvey's Theatre Lounge stage providing a vibrant, exciting show complete with whirling wardrobe changes.

Roberta Darin is a picture of scintillation with her flash of a smile and the spark of her eyes as she moves and sings your favorite hit. He show is a "must" on the entertainment agenda.

The Roberta Darin Show completed a Viet Nam tour, playing for the troops wherever they could. On several occasions, Roberta went along on casualty pickup hops in military helicopters to cheer the wounded. They covered Viet Nam from Saigon to the DMZ, receiving citations from several top generals. What's more, Roberta plans to return to that war-torn country as soon as possible. "The men are so appreciative of everything you do for them," she said. "It makes you feel as though nothing you do could possibly be enough."

At the Top of the Wheel Tiki Lounge, the perennial Ron Rose & Friend provide the dining and dancing music for the patrons, through April 18.

Plaudits For Lily

Exhibit A: "Lily Tomlin (remember that name) is this country's most gifted young comedienne, or, more propertly, comic actress." - Chauncey Howell, "Women's Wear Daily, Aug. 23, 1968.

Exhibit B: "Miss Tomlin, a bright, fresh musical comedy talent may well be headed for the big time," - Vincent Canby, New York Times, March 9, 1968.

Exhibit C: Lily Tomlin can be seen on NBC-TV every Monday night as the newest gal in the cast of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In."

Conway Signs More Guests

"The Tim Conway Hour," a one-hour comedy and music special starring Tim Conway with his special guest stars Carol Burnett, Danny Thomas, Joe Flynn and Harvey Korman will be broadcast Tuesday, March 24 in color on the CBS Television Network.

Tim Conway and Joe Flynn are stars of their own series, "The Tim Conway Show," which is broadcast Fridays on the Network.

In the program's opening, Tim is introduced along with his guest stars but for a few moments, there is some doubt as to who is the headliner.

Next, Tim and Carol try to get "discovered" as did Lana Turner at Hollywood's Schwab's Drug Store. However, progress being as it is, actors are required to give more to their art then in previous years . . . like the shirts off their backs.

In another sketch, Tim and Harvey Korman portray two elderly convicts trying to activate their escape plan from San Quentin.

Later during Danny Thomas' solo spot, Tim imposes on his guest to perform an original song which he wrote entitled, "Father."

Joe Flynn portrays Ralph Wiggims, owner and operator of Ralph Wiggim's Wig City, and applies some hard sell to the thinning hairline of Tim Conway.

Tim next rents an apartment in one of those "swinging singles" buildings only to find that the girl next door is a somewhat plain Jane played by Carol Burnett.

TED VOIGHT
. . . provides organ music for Ramada Sands cocktail hour

Music Of Ted Voight Featured At Ramada

Cocktail hour at the Ramada Sands is something special when dotted lavishly with the romantic musical stylings of organist Ted Voight.

Voight's popularity is rapidly growing and larger crowds gather each week to hear the talented musician give his interpretation to popular ballads and old standards.

Ramada cocktail hour with Voight at the organ is held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Gourmet Room.

Before entertaining at Lake Tahoe, Voight was musically active in the Bay Area for many years where he was also noted for his accomplishments on the pipe organ.

After many years of studying and teaching in the music field, Voight just recently signed to cut his first album. It will be on sale by the end of May.

Voight also voiced plans to open a teaching studio on the South Shore and to offer lessons on the keyboard.

Voight and his wife, Mary Ann, are the parents of three children, Bobby, 10; DeeDee, 9; and Trina, 8.

Sneakers Join Jim Nabors

Two pro football's most valuable players, Roman Gabriel of the Los Angeles Rams and Daryle Lamonica of the Oakland Raiders, are special guest stars on "The Jim Nabors Hour," Thursday March 26 in color on the CBS Television Network.

The musical group, Beverlee & Sidro with the Sneakers make their second guest appearance of the season on the same show. They return to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret April 2.

The two quarterbacks team up in a comedy sketch with Frank Sutton as their coach and Nabors as an accident-prone insurance salesman.

In another spot, Gabriel and Lamonica talk football with Nabors and they also join the entire cast in a big, western musical production number.

Nabors opens the show with two musical numbers, "Rickytick Music" and "Come to the Cabaret," assisted by The Tony Mordente Dancers and The Nabors Kids choral group.

Beverlee and Sidro with the Sneakers perform "Beautiful Baby" and then team up with host Nabors for "Raindrops."

Nabors' solos are "Cycles" and "Follow the Lamb."
